LITTLE ROCK SCHOOL INTEGRATED

Housing Code Is Passed

Panepinto Hearing Resumed

Monessen City Council today enacted a strict housing code and promptly set up machinery to see that it is enforced.

The ordinance was approved unanimously at a third and final reading. It establishes minimum standards governing the condition and maintenance of city dwellings.

The housing code also calls for condemnation of dwellings that are dilapidated, unsafe, unhygienic and a menace to the health and safety of the community.

Richard Belan, acting city engineer, was designated as "acting housing administrator." Council instructed him to enforce the new ordinance "to the letter of the law."

In making the temporary appointment, council indicated that a full-time administrator will be considered when next year's budget is prepared.

Provides Penalty

The new housing code provides a penalty of $100 plus costs, or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days, for violators of any provision. This is in addition to broad powers of condemnation.

At its meeting this morning, council also approved two other ordinance on third and final reading.

One ordinance authorized the appearance of a proposed $200,000 bond issue on the Nov. 5 general election ballot for the approval or disapproval of the electorate. The money will be used to finance construction of a new public library building.

The other ordinance approved expenses amounting to $50,000 to cover the cost of recurbing Schoonmaker Ave. from 6th St. to a point on 17th St. as a preliminary to concrete paving by the state Highway Department.

All members of council were present for today's meeting.

Reopen Hearing

City Council reopened the hearing of Philip Panepinto, fired Monessen policeman, at approximately 11 a. m. today with three witnesses appearing in Panepinto's behalf.

After hearing the witnesses, Council recessed at 12:15 and was to continue the case at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Panepinto was fired from the force on July 12 on the recommendation of Mayor Hugo J. Parente, who charged Panepinto wth violating two police regulations.

Appearing in Panepinto's behalf this morning were Peter Stieska, pharmacist, and George and William Hatalowich, operators Monessen Taxi Co., where it is alleged that Panepinto was seen "sleeping on duty" by Lt. Joseph Reday.

Panepinto said he was not sleeping but "relaxing", stating he was ill at the time.

Stieska told Council he had filled a prescription prepared by Dr. Joseph D'Allessio for the ousted patrolman a few days before the alleged "sleeping" violation occurred.

Attorney Louis Manderino presented Panepinto's case.

LITTLE ROCK VIOLENCE — More than 40 persons, nearly all whites, were under arrest when this day of integration violence ended at midnight in Little Rock, Ark. Federal troops are on the scene today.

Fluoride Resolution Rescinded

Monessen City Council today rescinded a resolution which would have placed the fluoridation question on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

In so doing, council adopted a new resolution which will refer the flouridation issue to a "panel of physicians, dentists, chemists and laymen" for further study. This panel will be selected by council at a later date.

The new fluoridation resolution was adopted unanimously.

Dr. Frank Tucci, a chiropractor and opponent of fluoridation, asked council "not to dictate" on the issue. He also requested that members of the "healing professions" be included on the panel set up to study the advisability of adding fluoride chemical to the city's water supply.

Gives Reason

Solicitor Frank Ezerski replied that council had no intention to dictate but rather to "recommend" under the newly-adopted resolution. Council requested that Dr. Tucci submit names of persons he felt were qualified to serve on the panel.

In adopting the new fluoridation resolution, council said it was rescinding its Sept. 11 action because "much controversy has arisen as to the advisability of submitting same to the electorate."

The council resolution also pointed out that the Monessen Citizen's Committee for Water Fluoridation and the Pennsylvania Economy League have both suggested further study on the matter.

The resolution also urged other communities supplied water by the Authority of the Boro of Charleroi to participate in the panel study.

INTEGRATION ON HIS MIND — President Eisenhower wore this grave expression when he returned to the Summer White House at Newport, R. I., to issue his proclamation on the "disgraceful occurences" in the Little Rock, Ark., integration strife.

Ike Makes Appeal to People of Arkansas

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower told the nation Tuesday night he was compelled to intervene with federal troops in the Arkansas integration crisis to uphold the law of the land against mob rule.

Eisenhower appealed to the people of Arkansas to help him end "extremist" resistance to allowing Negro children to attend Central High School in Little Rock. He said mob interference with a federal court's integration order was a blot on the nation's honor.

The President, who flew here Tuesday specifically to make the speech, flew back to Newport, R.I. early today to await the outcome of his drastic move to prevent further interference with court - ordered integration in Little Rock.

Praised And Condemned

The Chief Executive was alternately praised and condemned for his use of federal troops — a seldom-invoked step that never before has been taken in the integration struggle.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Senate southern bloc, assailed the use of troops as "totalitarian." He predicted the President's order will have "a calamitous effect on race relations and on the cause of national unity."

A number of southern governors and political leaders, including so - called "moderates," expressed grave concern over the use of federal troops. Some denounced it as dictatorship.

Others expressed the view that Eisenhower had to send in the troops to prevent future defiance of the courts.

Risk Of Anarchy

Eisenhower's 13-minute speech was delivered in a solemn and unsmiling manner. He outlined the seriousness of the Little Rock situation. He said unless he had acted "anarchy would result."

Castigating the crowds that blocked Negro attendance at school as "disorderly mobs" led by "demagogic extremists," the President declared:

"Mob rule cannot be allowed to override the decisions of our courts."

Eisenhower asserted the federal troops are not being used to "relieve local and state authorities of their primary duty to preserve peace and order." He said they are in Little Rock solely to prevent interference with the integration orders issued by Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies.

Record Voters Are Eligible In Westmoreland

A record total of 161,436 persons are eligible to vote in Westmoreland County in the Nov. 5 general election, according to figures released today by Robert P. DeLotto, chief registrar.

The totals show 105,759 registered Democrats and 54,941 Republicans, giving the Democrats a 50,818 majority in the county.

In comparing the 1957 general election figures with last year's presidential election figures, the Democrats showed a gain of 1,625 new voters while the GOP lost 1,280, DeLotto's release stated.

In Monessen, there are a total of 10,690 registered voters — 9,496 Democrats and 1,194 Republicans.

Breakdown figures for other district communities follow: North Belle Vernon: Democrats, 1,157, Republicans, 500; Smithton: Democrats, 29; Republicans, 99; Sutterville: Democrats, 397, Republicans, 115; West Newton: Democrats, 1,327, Republicans 766; Rostraver Township: Democrats, 3,900, Republicans, 853; Sewickley Township: Democrats, 2,579, Republicans, 721; South Huntingdon Township: Democrats, 2,420, Republicans, 445.

Speers Crackdown On Bus Violators

Speers Police Chief Charles Hazlett said today he is under orders to arrest and prosecute all motorists who pass school - buses illegally.

Hazlett said he has received several complaints from Maple View residents that children are being endangered by motorists who are illegally passing school buses discharging students.

Troops Escort Negro Students Into High School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — Central High School was integrated today under the protection of bayonet-toting paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division.

The Army regulars escorted nine Negro students into the high school building at 9:22 a. m. (C.S.T.), without incident.

The Negro children arrived in a green Army station wagon, convoyed fore and aft by jeeploads of troops. The convoy roared down the street, past a crowd of perhaps 200 white civilians who had been kept at a distance of one block from the school, and drove directly to the door of the school.

The nine students got out of the station wagon and walked quietly into the building to their classrooms. Classes had been underway about half an hour when they arrived.

Shortly before the Negro children showed up, a squad of eight paratroopers, with bayonets pointed menacingly forward, drove back a crowd of 115 persons who had snickered derisively when an officer ordered them over loudspeakers to disperse. The crowd retreated quickly before the determinded - looking paratroopers advancing with outthrust bayonets. No one was scratched.

About 500 battle - garbed troops, members of the famed fighting division which said "nuts" to the German army at Bastogne, ringed the two-block long school. The inner perimeter of guards consisted of soldiers standing at parade rest, rifle butts on the ground, about five feet apart.

Use Helicopter

An outer perimeter, consisting of detachments of 8 to 12 men, held every street section at a distance of one block from the grounds. Roving squads, on foot and in jeeps, moved constantly around in the "no-man's land" between the two perimeters. An Army helicopter hovered overhead directing these roving squads to any potential troubled spot.

Twenty minutes after the Negro children entered the school, a detachment of 25 troops advanced with fixed bayonets toward a crowd which had gathered at another intersection a block from the school.

This crowd was a little slower in dispersing. One teen-age boy stubbornly stood his ground, and a paratrooper prodded the sharp end of his bayonet gently into the small of his back. The pinprick did not draw blood — but it persuaded the youth to retreat in some haste.

There were no crowds, no demonstrations, no disorder of any kind within the heavily - patrolled area immediately surrounding the school.

Comparatively small crowds of white people, ranging from as few as a dozen to a maximum of 150, gathered at widely scattered spots around the fringe of the outer perimeter.

Anyone who tried to move forward was promptly and very firmly pushed back by a phalanx of troops holding bayonetted rifles at port arms, athwart the waist. Only when a crowd ignored orders to disperse or move back did the

101st Airborne Is Army's First 'Pentomic' Division

WASHINGTON (UP) — The 101st' Airborne Division whose troops were flown into Little Rock Tuesday was reorganized two years ago as the Army's first modern - style "pentomic" division.

Members of the division, organized in five battle groups, are trained to use atomic or conventional weapons. It is an entirely new type of paratroop division, designed to quell small "brush fire" wars.

During World War II, the 101st won fame in the Battle of the Bulge at Bastogne, Belgium under the command of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor. Coincidentally, it was Taylor, now Army chief of staff, who ordered the 101st to Arkansas Tuesday.

Taylor, however, was in Washington on a secret mission when the Germans made a sudden thrust into Belgium at Christmastime in 1944. Subsequently, an ultimatum was sent to the group's acting commander, Anthony C. McAuliffe. His reply — "Nuts!" — is regarded as a classic military brushoff.

When it was reactivated last year, many officers and enlisted men jumped at the chance to get into the 101st. The division was put under command of Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Sherburne Jr., who previously served as the 101st's artillery commander.

As the Army's first "pentomic" division, the 101st became the first to have its own atomic weapons.

Dispensing with the old regimental setup, the division was organized into five battle groups designed for wide dispersal on atomic battlefields.

Essentially, its job in war, Sherburne said, would be to "land on the target, do the job and get out like a nest of hornets."

Roscoe Man Is Fatally Stricken Bowling Here

Walter W. Wentzell Sr., 55, of Roscoe was fatally stricken at the CIO Bowling Allys in Monessen last night.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital about 9 p. m.

The victim was rushed to the hospital after he collapsed and fell off of a chair in the bowling establishment located at Eighth St. and Donner Ave.

Born in Alexandria, Ind., on March 25, 1902, the deceased was employed as an electrician in the Monessen plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Survivors include his wife, Anna Rock Wentzell; two sons, Walter, Jr., of Santa Anna, Calif., and Edward, California, Pa.; and one daughter, Mrs. Herbert (Irene) Biagini, Charleroi.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning from Holy Trinity Russian Orthodox Church, Charleroi at 9 a. m. with burial to follow in Monongahela Valley Memorial Park. Friends are being received at the Melinchak Funeral Home in Charleroi.

Strange and Peaceful Calm in Little Rock

By LOUIS CASSELS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — The first thing you notice about Little Rock is how peaceful it seems.

I don't know exactly what I was expecting to find when I arrived from Washington last night. But it certainly wasn't the calm, business-as-usual atmosphere of Little Rock airport. Nor the quiet, almost-empty streets through which my cab drove to the Marion Hotel.

A few bored-looking men in business suits were sitting around in the hotel lobby reading newspapers. "Where are the troops?" I asked the desk clerk who shoved a registration card at me. He shrugged and didn't answer.

Could this be the city into which federal troops had just moved to restore order?

I walked two blocks down Louisiana Street to the United Press office in the Arkansas Gazette Building. Nobody threw rocks at me.

"Where's all this tension and trouble you've been writing about?" I asked Bryce Miller, the United Press correspondent who's been covering the Little Rock integration story from the start.

"Come on, I'll take you for a ride," he said.

We got into Miller's station wag-

Four Dead, Seven Homes Damaged In Plane Crash

DAYTON, Ohio, (UP) — One of the worst plane crashes in this aviation pioneer city took four lives and damaged seven homes Tuesday.

At dinner time in an East Side residential area a crippled Air Force B-26 bomber roared down, clipping the tops of four houses and bursting into flame.

"I was just coming out the front sidewalk when it hit," the 10-year-old daughter of Herbert Vanzant said.

Vanzant's wife, Elizabeth, about 40, and his brother-in-law, Walter Geisler, 53, were killed.

Also dead were the pilot and co-pilot of the plane, Maj. James E. Melancon, 36, San Antonio, Tex., father of two, and Capt. Wilho R. Heikkinen, 31, Ramsey, Mich.

Redstone Twp. Children Back In School Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Redstone Township parents, who had kept their children out of school the past two weeks, sent them to classes today after being threatened with truancy charges.

The parents had protested the closing of Allison No. 1 school, which the children had attended in past years, and had refused to send the children to a school in Briar Hill on grounds it was unsafe and a fire hazard.

All 70 pupils went to the Briar Hill school today after the Redstone Township School Board warned that any parent whose child failed to show up would be charged with truancy.

The parents were told in letters mailed during the week end that keeping children from school three days in succession was punishable under state law.

Judge Eustace Bane of Fayette County Court refused Tuesday to issue a rule requiring the school board to show cause why it should not be restrained from sending the children to the Briar Hill school.

He said it was up to the state Department of Labor and Industry to inspect a school and decide whether it is safe or unsafe.

The Allison No. 1 school was closed in an economy move.

'Lost' Police Report Turns Up on Crash

A police report "lost" since last Friday turned up today to identify the driver of a tractor-trailer truck which ran into a fire escape at the Herron Oldsmobile Building at Tenth St. and Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen.

The report, which police said was "mislaid" by an office clerk, listed the driver as Roy Harvey Powers, Kirkwood, Mo.

The accident occurred at 1:20 a.m. last Friday, ripping off the fire escape from the building. No other details were offered.

B. V. Presbyterians to Begin Church Building

The First Presbyterian Church of Belle Vernon announced today that contracts for the first phase of a quarter-million dollar building program have been awarded.

The first step in the proposed church plant will be the construction of a main building. The general contract for this project was awarded to the Haury Construction Co., Monessen, for $157,605.

Actual work will begin next Monday following formal ground breaking services on Sunday at 3 p. m.

The church building will include a sanctuary which will seat 300 persons, a full basement, a fellowship hall, kitchen and Sunday School rooms.

Designed by Architect H. Ernest Clark, Monessen, the church will be New England colonial in structure.

The church plant will be located at Fayette St. in North Belle Vernon at the Rostraver Twp. line on the former W. H. Lange property. The church will be situated 80 feet back from Fayette St.

The building, itself, will measure 210 feet by 435 feet.

Contractors hope to have the church completed by May of next year.

Membership of the Belle Vernon church is over 500. The congregation was incorporated in 1874 and the present building in downtown Belle Vernon was constructed in 1900.

The church construction is the

Police Discount Alleged Plot of $100,000 Theft

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—State police today discounted the story of an alleged plot by three Southwestern Pennsylvania men to rob a West Virginia man of $100,000 he supposedly kept in his home.

Wheeling authorities had informed Pennsylvania troopers of the alleged plot after learning of it from Edward J. Anderson, 35, of Canonsburg, Pa.. and Rudolph L. Colteryahn, 24, of Huston, Pa.

Anderson and Colteryahn, arrested by Wheeling police last week on concealed weapons and improper automobile registration charges, told of the plan under questioning.

They named Mike Cherniga, 31, of Canonsburg, as the "key man" in a plot to rob the home of Harry (Big Red) Richardson in Valley Grove, W. Va., near Wheeling.

Zoning Hearings Will Be Held Here Tonight

The second in a series of public hearings on Monessen's proposed zoning ordinance will be held tonight at 7 o'clock by the Planning Commission in the City Building.

And there are indications that the meeting will attract considerably more attention than the first hearing a week ago.

At that time only four persons not associated with the commission showed up to hear an explanation of the ordinance and to ask questions.

The apathy on the part of public caused some concern among the commission members, who spent a good part of the hearing discussing ways of stirring more interest in their work.

One of the commission members, Charles Hagerstrand, is using his office as president of the Chamber of Commerce to further publicize tonight's hearing.

Hagerstrand has mailed letters to all members of the Chamber urging them to attend.

"Since the proposed zoning ordinance affects every member of the Chamber of Commerce in some avenue of their business or professional life," wrote Hagerstrand, "it behooves every member to avail themselves to the hearing. I urge all members to attend this important meeting that will have much to do in shaping the future of our progressive city."

The proposed zoning ordinance is now in the "first draft" stage, according to the commission.

The public hearings are designed to not only explain the ordinance but to solicit criticisms. All such criticisms must be submitted in writing so that commisson members might study them.

After the hearings, the comisision plans to draw up a final draft troops swing their bayonets around to the outthrust, or ready-to-stick, position.

Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, commanding the federal forces in Little Rock, addressed an assembly of white students at Central High before the Negro children arrived.

"No one will interfere with your coming, going, or your peaceful pursuits of your studies," said Gen. Walker. "However, I would be less than honest if I failed to tell you that I intend to use all means necessary to prevent any interference with the execution of your school board's integration plan."

His statement was essentially a reiteration of a proclamation which he issued to citizens of Little Rock Tuesday night shortly after he had been named to head the U.S. troops sent here at President Eisenhower's orders to put an end to disturbances which have prevented integration at the high school.

Soldiers Determined

He said that he intended to carry out his orders and he warned:

"Those who interfere or disrupt the proper administration of the school will be removed by the soldiers on duty and turned over to the local police for disposition in accordance with the laws of your community."

He said his troops are seasoned, well - trained soldiers, including many combat veterans.

"Being soldiers, they are as determined as I to carry out their orders," he said. "However, as I stated before, the law abiding people have nothing to fear from them. They have been carefully instructed not to molest any law-abiding citizens in his person or property, and they will obey these orders."

Most Drastic Action

President Eisenhower, who only 10 days ago attempted to resolve the crisis through direct negotiations with Faubus at the summer White House in Newport, sent the troops in after mobs had defied both federal court decrees and a presidential proclamation to cease to interfere with integration.

It was the most drastic action ever used by a president to enforce a federal court decree on school desegregation.

Eisenhower appealed in a radio and television address to the people of Arkansas Tuesday night to help him end the mob interference that he blamed on "demagogic extremists."

Adjutant General Sherman T. Clinger, who had enforced Faubus' orders to prevent the Negroes from entering Central High, found himself on the other side after Eisenhower acted.

9,900 Troops Mobilized

Clinger mobilized 9,900 National Guardsmen and Air National Guardsmen into federal service. Only a fraction of these troops will be used, probably two companies in Little Rock. Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, red-haired paratrooper and chief of the Arkansas Military District, was put in command of all troops.

Segregation leaders predicted that the troops would be "here a helluva long time."

Amis Guthridge, counsel for the Capitol Citizen's Council, told 1,000 cheering segregationists at a rally that the troops "will be here one year, five years, 10 years, but when they go home, we'll be here."

Shortly after the paratroops arrived, officers marched them to the football field behind the school and put them through 30 minutes of close order drill.

Children Denounce Soldiers

After the drill ended, the troops took up position about the school grounds. They ignored shouts of "Go home, soldiers" from automobile loads of boys and girls roaring down the streets.

The paratroopers permitted pedestrians to pass freely back and forth on the sidewalks as long as they did not walk in the street in front of the school.

Police reported there were complaints of rock - throwing by Negroes "all over town" during the night but there were no arrests.

Faubus, who was under a U. S. District Court injunction not to interfere with integration at Central High, returned home from the southern governors' conference in Georgia Tuesday.

Faubus refused to discuss the President's calling out troops.

SYRIA NO THREAT? — Crown Prince Faisal and President Eisenhower talk over the Middle East crisis during a White House conference. The Saudi Arabian monarch said the Arab world faces no threat from Soviet-armed Syria. This statement was sharply at variance with that of Secreatry of State John Foster Dulles (center), who also attended the conference.

Emotions in South Show Wide Range

ATLANTA (UP) — Emotions of the white South ranged from shocked disbelief to cold fury today over President Eisenhower's use of the armed forces to compel the integration of Central High School in Little Rock, Ark.

It's the "official" start of a second reconstruction period in the South, warned Sen. James O Eastland (D-Miss.).

Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus should close the schools, said Rep Bob Sikes (D-Fla.).

An unidentified Virginian tried to enlist to fight federal troops in Arkansas.

Alabama Gov. James E. Folsom, nominally non-committal on the civil rights controversy, said he would discharge every member of the state's National Guard before permitting its federalization.

"Surely we can find some other way (than) the use of American soldiers with loaded guns facing law-abiding American citizens," commented Tennessee Governor Frank Clement who last fall called out the National Guard to enforce the orderly integration of a school in Clinton, Tenn.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said that Eisenhower was using "totalitarian rule" to integrate Little Rock schools and warned "it would have a calamitous effect on race relations and on the cause of national unity."

Russell was the leader in the Senate civil rights battle of 1957 and was credited with engineering an amendment prohibiting use of armed troops to back up the measure.

In Texas, where there is a new law cutting off state funds to any school integrated without approval of the voters, Gov. Price Daniel fired a telegram to the President saying:

"Does this mean you will occupy with troops every non-integrated school in the South? If so your action will destroy the public school systems and good will among the races which most of us in the South have labored so hard to preserve."

There was mixed editorial reaction in the southern press although heavily stacked against the President's action.

The Birmingham Post - Herald (also Scripps - Howard) said the President was "poorly - advised. . more like that of a dictator."

The Nashville Banner headed its editorial "Careful, Mr. President" and said there was no state of insurrection in Little Rock "justifying federal martial law."

But the Miami Herald said the situation "demands extreme measures. . .what is vital is that law and order shall prevail. The President has asserted himself to that end and must stand by his decision with vigor."

initial step in a building program which will cost an estimated $244,000.

The general contract was awarded to the Haury Construction Co. following a meeting of the congregation on Sept. 1. Subcontractors will be John Vecho & Son, Monongahela, for heating and Electric Service Co., Brownsville, for electric installations.

The new site will include parking facilities for approximately 200 autos.

At present, the church is without a minister as a result of the resignation of the Rev. George S. Clarke who accepted a call to Florida.

The building committee includes: Lloyd Githens, chairman; C. G. Dickson, vice chairman; Mrs V. W. Bair, C. R. Armstrong, Roy Bedsworth, Bruno Biagini, Robert Croushore, Mrs. George Fee, Barry Miller, Alex R. Newell, Mrs. C. L. Shoaf, David P. Scholl, Fred Shearer, Dr. F. C Smith, J. R. Terney, Harold R. of the ordinance, incorporating any constructive criticisms it might deem advisable.

The final draft will then be submitted to City Council for its approval.

As the proposed ordinance now exits, it will regulate and restrict the construction and location of buildings and will zone the city into eight general areas. The ordinance is so far reaching that it will in some way effect every resident of the city.

on and drove down Main Street, a wide, brightly-lighted thoroughfare with nice-looking department stores and shops.

"No riot here," I commented.

"No people either," he replied.

That was the first time I had thought to look at my watch. It was just 8 p.m., but the streets were as deserted as you would expect to find them at 2 a.m. The few people who were abroad were walking in groups of three or four—and walking fast.

We swung down Ninth Street, the main business street of the Negro district. The pool halls and beer parlors were doing very little business. Here and there a little knot of Negro men stood on the corner, talking earnestly. In the Negro residential section, most of the houses had the lights on—and the shades drawn all the way down.

"Don't you feel it?" Miller asked.

City Is Scared

"Yes," I said. "I'm beginning to feel it. This town is scared."

Other cars were cruising the streets. A lot of them were police cars. Many of them were filled with teen-aged white boys. They were wearing black, tight-fighting blue jeans and T-shirts that had been dyed black.

"Is that a high school fad here?" I asked Bryce.

"First night I've noticed it," he said. "It seems to be some kind of uniform."

Half a dozen cars full of white teen-agers were parked at a dairy bar drive-in. Suddenly police cars pulled up from three directions. The cops jumped out and told the kids to disperse. Some of the youngsters wanted to get tough about it, so the police loaded them into the prowl cars and took them to the station. We counted about 15 who were arrested.

Bryce drove a few more blocks, to the corner of 14th and Park, and pulled to a halt. Directly ahead of us was a barricade. Behind the barricade, bathed in floodlights, was Central High School. In front of the barricade, standing smartly at parade rest with M-1 rifles firmly grasped in their right hands, were half a dozen GI's of the 101st Airborne Division.

Stopped By Private

We walked toward the barricade until a soft-voiced private in fatigues and paratroop boots lifted his rifle slightly and said "That's far enough, mister."

"We're newspapermen. Can we talk to somebody?"

"Sergeant of the guard," sang out the private. Moments later Sgt. Kenneth Gage of Davis, Okla. emerged from the shadows. We told him we wanted to know how many men they had, where they were stationed, that sort of thing.

"You'll have to go down to headquarters," he said politely. "We can't answer questions here."

A convoy of jeeps rumbled down the street and into the barricaded high school grounds. Behind them came five open Army trucks, loaded with troops. All of them were wearing full combat gear — helmets, rifles, bayonets in scabbards.

They were silent, grim-faced, not like troops going on maneuvers, more like men moving into battle.

"I'd hate to tangle with those birds," said Bryce.

So would I.

Gets Sentence for Striking Women

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP) — Dennis Hopkins, 28, of Sycamore, Greene County, was sentenced to from one to two years in Western Penitentiary Tuesday after pleading guilty to striking two elderly women.

Hopkins, charged with assault and battery and forcible entry, admitted he struck Mrs. Gertrude Kent, 80, and her sister, Florence Reese, 60, when they attempted to oust him from their home near here two weeks ago.

Firemen to Meet

The Fayette County Firemen's Association will meet next Wednesday at the Fire House in Everson beginning at 8 p.m. The November meeting is scheduled for Belle Vernon.

Southern Governors Rally to Get Troops Out of Little Rock

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (UP)—States' rights forces in the Southern Governors Conference rallied today behind two proposals they hope will get federal troops out of Little Rock and bring mediation of the entire school integration problem in a meeting with President Eisenhower.

Democratic members of the 16-state conference began lining up behind separate proposals by Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina and Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee. The three Republicans among the 12 governors still in attendance at the conference here appeared to be against them.

The southern Democrats, stunned by the most crucial state-federal conflict in recent decades, abruptly departed from a tradition of harmony at their annual meeting and moved to step into the boiling integration controversy in a body.

Both the Clement and Hodges resolutions were to be taken up this morning by the conference resolution committee, which could adopt—or reject—one or both of the proposals.

Urges Talks With Ike

Clement said it is "more imperative than ever" that his plan for a meeting between a southern governors committee and President Eisenhower be held promptly to prevent the conflict from being settled "in the streets of Little Rock and others of our cities with guns and bayonetes."

Hodges put forth a proposal he said had the support of Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, who left the conference Tuesday to fly back to Little Rock.

It would ask Eisenhower to notify Faubus that maintenance of law and order in Arkansas and all other states is the state's responsibility and that the federal government would step in only if state forces failed. In effect, it suggests giving Faubus another chance to deal with the Little Rock situation himself.

Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida and Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia implied their support of the Clement proposal and there were other expressions of support for the Hodges resolution.

Underwood Backs President

But Republican Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland said he would vote against the Hodges' proposal "or any other resolution which even suggests the possibility of President Eisenhower's improper or unwarranted exercise of federal power." Similar action was indicated by Republicans Cecil Underwood of West Virginia and Caleb Boggs of Delaware.

A three-fourths vote of the conference was necessary to pass the measure if they cleared the committee. Hodges, the conference chairman, said the White House had been informed of his proposal.

Clement advanced his plan at a news conference Tuesday. He recalled that Eisenhower a few months ago suggested the state and federal governments act as "partners" in solving joint problems.

"A crisis has arisen," Clement said. "Why should not the partners sit down and discuss the crisis?"

The governors sat at dinner tables around a swimming pool at this seaside resort Tuesday night and listened to President Eisenhower's address over loud speakers.

Long Sees Reversal

Gov. Earl Long of Louisiana said after the talk that the President "has completely reversed himself" since his "partnership" speech of some months back.

Alabama Gov. James (Big Jim) Folsom said Tuesday, "Before I'll let them federalize the Alabama National Guard, I will by proclamation discharge every member therein."

Griffin and South Carolina Gov George Bell Timmerman Jr. called Eisenhower a dictator for sending federal forces to Little Rock.

Hodges warned against "precipitous action which might divide our people for years to come." Clement said that "while the people of the South do not sympathize with mob rule, neither do they want to face bayonets in the hands of fellow Americans."

The presidential action in Arkansas united moderates like Collins and Hodges with extreme segregationists like Griffin and Timmerman. They all cried out against use of federal troops.

McSorley Trial On Misconduct Starts Nov. 13

HARRISBURG (UP)—G. Franklin McSorley, suspended chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, will go on trial in Dauphin County Court Nov. 13 on a charge of misconduct in office.

The Pittsburgh Democrat was suspended without pay from his $15,000-a-year post last January by Gov. George M. Leader following a special grand jury investigation into virtually all phases of turnpike operations

McSorley, an appointee of the governor, was indicted on a charge of permitting a commission employe to serve as chauffeur for former Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, for eight months after Evans left the agency.

The special grand jury said the employe, Daniel J. Dalto, was paid $2,800 during that 1955-56 period from commission funds for services which did not benefit the agency.

European Army Ready

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UP) The United States has virtually completed building its new army in Europe, streamlined and highly mobile for modern atomic warfare, Gen. Henry I. Hodes disclosed today.

A headquarters spokesman said the atomic-age army will have a "killing power potential almost beyond calculation."

Since last June, quietly and without fanfare, Hodes has carried out the most drastic revamping ever undergone by the 200,000-man U.S. force that guards the Iron Curtain border in Europe. Its combat spearhead is the 15,000-man U.S. 7th Army.

The job consisted of the reorganization of five "conventional" divisions into so-called "pentomic" divisions—flexible, highly mobile units capable of operating independently on vast, fluid atomic battlefields.

U.S. forces Europe, told the United Press in an exclusive interview at his headquarters here that conversion of the 11th Airborne, the 8th and 10th Infantry and the 2nd Armoored divisions already is completed. The 3rd armored division will be converted in the near future.

Fall Program Of Recreation Outlined Here

A fall-winter program of recreation for Monessen residents was announced today by Thomas M. D'Errico, the city's recreation director.

Activities will begin Monday, Oct. 7, and will continue through Dec. 31, D'Errico said. The winter-spring schedule will start on Jan. 1, 1958.

The varied program calls for activities designed to accommodate both the adults and young people. Most of the events will be held at Memorial Civic Center.

The Civic Center gymnasium and game room will be open each evening for basketball and other sports Monday through Friday. Youngsters from grades five through 12 will use the facilities from 4 to 6 p. m.; while boys from grades 8 to 12 will have additional time from 7 to 9 p. m.

On Saturday, the gym and game room will be open from 9 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. for students from grade five on up.

Arts and Crafts

Arts and crafts projects for adults will be held from 7 to 10 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The children will have similar classes on the same days from 4 to 6 p. m.

Recreation swimming and related aquatic activities will be conducted at the Junior High pool. For the women, the classes are scheduled for Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m., while the men will use the pool on Thursdays from 7 to 9 p. m.

The Community Band will continue to practice on its present schedule under the supervision of John Jannotta.

Bowling classes for women are scheduled for every other Friday at 9 p. m. Registration is being accepted by Mrs. Helen Bender, who may be contacted by telephone at MUrray 4-9291.

A new activity will be classes in knitting, embroidering, punch work, and hair pin lace. The age group will be from 10 to 16 years for girls.

However adults will also be welcomed to these classes. For those over 16, classes will be organized in handmaking of "knick knacks" and artificial flowers. Tentative schedule of classes will be from 7 to 9 p. m daily at the Civic Center.

A general report on the city's recreation program will be submitted next month to a joint meeting of the Recreation Board, City Council and School District.

At that time, next year's budget will be set up. The recreation program is financed jointly by the School District and City Council.

More Testimony Today in Hoxsey Clinic Trial

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The government was to present more witnesses today at the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic trial in which it seeks a permanent injunction against the treatment of out-of-state patients at the Cambria County establishment.

The trial, now in its third day, appeared destined to take nearly as much time as the earlier case against the clinic when 23 days of testimony was taken before a Federal Court jury. Several outbursts and delays have marked the present Federal Court proceedings which are being held without a jury.

After the earlier trial, a jury gave the government the right to destroy thousands of pills seized at the clinic on March 25, 1949. The pills were declared misbranded and mislabeled when shipped across state lines.

Judge John L. Miller, who is hearing the case, refused to permit defense counsel Vincent M. Casey to use a charge of entrapment against the Food and Drug Administration.

Casey hurled the entrapment charge after a government attorney revealed that copies of a clinic newspaper had been mailed to the wife of a FDA inspector. William Goodrich, FDA counsel, had offered copies of the clinic newspaper as evidence.

The newspaper is published by former state Sen. John J. Haluska, the clinic administrator.

Rotary Given Business Views

Monessen Rotarians were given a brief insight into new developments in local businesses at the luncheon meeting held yesterday at Johnson's restaurant.

Jack Sylvester was in charge of the program and introduced some of the Rotarians active in business. Charles Darby told of the new developments in the public water supply; Sylvester discussed laundries; Carl Ewing, department stores; Leonard Stern, new textiles and floor coverings and Harry Roberts, mechanical developments in the building supply business.

There were two guests present, Robert Aikman of Bethlehem and Robert Nagle of Pittsburgh.

Last night William H. Pore, Rotary president, conducted a meeting of officers and committee chairmen of the club at the Civic Center.

Homecoming at Wayman Church Here on Sunday

The Rev. Isaac Louden, who has been appointed to serve the Wayman A.M.E. Church as pastor for another year, will conduct the morning worship service on Sunday as part of the annual Harvest homecoming observance at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Louden was reassigned at the Pittsburgh Annual Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church held in Braddock Sept. 18 to 22.

A covered dish dinner will be served to members of the congregation and their friends by the church trustees and their wives after the service.

At 3 p. m. the Rev. W. McClellan, pastor of the Hope Baptist Church in Uniontown, will be guest speaker. Music will be furnished by the Uniontown choir.

Members of the trustee board are Fred German, John Brice, Obed Macer, Scipio White, Felton Brown, Donald Macer, Vernon Peasley, Clyde Wheeler and Mrs. Major Corley, general chairman for the homecoming.

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UP) — Cemetery caretaker C. F. Parrott complained about a different kind of spirits that are weighing his spirits down. Parrott said the Oakland Cemetery has become the final resting place of beer cans and whisky bottles discarded after revelries by University of Iowa students and local businessmen.

AFL-CIO Prepares Hoffa Ban

NEW YORK (UP) — AFL-CIO leaders appeared ready today to order the Teamsters Union to reject James R. Hoffa's bid for the presidency if it wants to stay in the federation.

Hoffa, leading contender to succeed retiring Dave Beck in the union's top job, may be blacklisted for any office by the AFL-CIO Executive Council, labor officials said.

The 2-man council planned to reach its verdict on the Teamsters, accused of being dominated by corrupt influences, at a closed-door meeting.

The council Tuesday night ordered the 40,000-member United Textile Workers to remove two top officials within 30 days or face ouster from the AFL-CIO.

Denies Wrong-doing

UTW President Anthony F. Valente and Secretary - Treasurer Lloyd Klenert, accused of misusing $127,000 in union funds, must be booted out of office, the council said.

In Washington, the Senate Rackets Committee disclosed that Hoffa suddenly started to repay money he borrowed five years ago from union officials under his sway.

In Miami Beach, Hoffa said the renewed hearings would not hurt his chance of becoming president of the big union. He denied wrongdoing and said the committee is readying a "bad labor law."

The Senate committee prepared to hear testimony on a million-dollar loan of Teamster funds to a strikebound Minneapolis department store. Investigators said Hoffa made the loan while Teamsters were refusing to cross picket lines at the store.

Hoffa replied that the loan was okayed by a company - union trustee committee and was to draw per cent interest over a 10-year period.

Dulles, Figl Meet

WASHINGTON (UP) — Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl talked over U.S. Austrian relations with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Tuesday. He termed the half-hour discussion "helpful and useful" but gave no details. He was accompanied by Austrian Finance Minister Reinhardt Kamitz.

Mine Explosion Cause Due Today

A mine inspection team was expected to make public today its findings on what caused the Marianna mine explosion which killed five men and injured six others.

The inspection team includes representatives from the state and federal governments as well as the Bethlehem Steel Corp., owner of the mine.

The officials started their inspection tour yesterday to gather evidence.

The explosion 500 feet below the surface occurred early Monday, shortly after 11 miners went into the shaft to repair a faulty fan. Normally about 180 men would have been in the pit which was shut down until the fan was repaired.

Services for the dead miners will be held Thursday and Friday. The six survivors are undergoing treatment in Washington Memorial Hospital.

Five were reported in good condition. James Wright, a section foreman from Marianna, was listed as critical.

The first exploratory probe got under way yesterday morning when five men entered the mine. They included two state inspectors, two federal inspectors and Marianna mine assistant foreman V. T. Moore.

The men were able to make their way from the Marianna portal to the Moore shaft, which was the scene of the explosion. The route was blocked to rescue teams Monday by debris and carbon monoxide.

Evans said the exploration team encountered several small fires, which were extinguished, but detected no dangerous gas pockets. They were accompanied by a five-man rescue team, with another five-man crew standing by.

The inspectors emerged from Moore portal about 2:45 p. m. and plans for the official investigation began immediately.

Bethlehem Mines officials yesterday said they were in no position to give an estimate of damage, could not tell how long it would take to repair damage to Moore shaft and the mine workings, and had no idea when the mine would reopen.

Stevenson Gives His Approval to Action by Ike

CHICAGO (UP) — Adlai E. Stevenson has approved President Eisenhower's decisions in the Arkansas crisis and said he hopes "the President will now mobilize the nations conscience as he has mobilized its arms."

Stevenson, twice defeated by Eisenhower in presidential elections, said Tuesday "At this point the President had no choice. The combination of lawless violence and the governor's irresponsible behavior have created a crisis which Arkansas is powerless to meet.

The Democratic Party leader said "federal force must in this situation be used to put down force, but added military action "is only a temporary solution."

"We have suffered a national disaster and I hope the President will now mobilize the nation's conscience as he has mobilized its arms.

Accused Steel Worker Sentenced

PITTSBURGH (UP)—George Crosby, a former millhand who said he was bribed to stuff ballots in the United Steelworkers election last February, was under five years probation today for stabbing his wife and step child.

Crosby pleaded guilty to the stabbing charge Tuesday. He admitted he stabbed his wife, Mattie, 38, and a step-daughter, Ernestine, 18, last May 22 when they came home late from a bingo game.

Judge Henry X. O'Brien, who sentenced Crosby, said he was saved from a prison term by Mrs. Crosby's plea for mercy.

The Issue Changes At Little Rock

THE ISSUE in Little Rock, Arkansas, is no longer racial integration of the public schools. The issue now is mob rule versus law and order.

This is the central fact which the American people, North and South, white and colored, must keep first in their minds as the situation at Little Rock develops for better or for worse.

The Supreme Court said that the integration of Negro children with white children in previously segregated schools should proceed with "deliberate speed." And the federal authorities from President Eisenhower down have been acting — correctly, in our view — with more deliberation than speed.

The extremists on the segregation side, abetted by the ill-advised conduct of Governor Faubus, apparently have mistaken deliberation for lack of conviction and courage. So they have begun to use violence as a substitute for legal action.

Thus the issue changes and with it the need for deliberation. The mob has thrown down a challenge to which there can be only one response. And it must be a swift and decisive response.

* * *

THE PRESIDENT of the United States, a reasonable man if there is one anywhere in the country, is now speaking and acting for every law-abiding citizen. And we believe that includes the vast majority of the citizens of Little Rock.

"I will use the full power of the United States," says the President, "including whatever force may be necessary to prevent any obstruction of the law and to carry out the orders of the federal court."

Just what the President will do is not known as this comment is written — before his address to the nation last night.

But we do not hesitate to say that the overwhelming weight of public opinion will be behind the President's course of action until the mob is dispersed and the law is supreme in Little Rock.

* * *

ANYONE with a sense of history knows that these are fateful events we are witnessing. Here is another chapter in that endless story of what Burns called "man's inhumanity to man." The shade of another wise, gentle and brave President stands behind Dwight Eisenhower as he leads the nation through these days. And it is not hard to imagine it whispering:

"There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."

And this, too:

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in."

Doctors and the UMW

THE CONFLICT between the organized coal miners of Pennsylvania and the organized physicians of Pennsylvania has reached a stage where it must be distasteful to many people on both sides of the argument.

The difficulty arises out of the operation of the United Mine Workers welfare fund, which wants a greater degree of control over the employment and payment of doctors and the designation of hospitals than the Medical Society of Pennsylvania is prepared to grant.

It is a cardinal principle of medical ethics that the relationship between the patient and the doctor is a personal one in which there is no room for a third party. Doctors also insist that they and they alone must fix the fees for their services and that the only person who has to be satisfied with the fee is the patient who has received the service.

Most people, we think, respect these principles as being in keeping with American traditions. And we should think that union members would be the last to deny the Medical Society the right to enforce some discipline among doctors. What is a "scab", after all, but an individual who doesn't conform, and what is a picket line but an attempt to enforce discipline?

Yet it seems certain that union welfare funds are going to be around for awhile. And those who administer them certainly have some responsibility for seeing that the beneficiaries get good medical service at a reasonable cost.

It seems to us that that word "reasonable" ought to be made a watchword on both sides of this controversy. Miners, no less than the rest of us, stand to benefit from a medical profession oriented about a personal relationship between doctor and patient. Assembly-line medicine is just another of the horrors of Communism that we want no part of.

We would also like to think that there is enough of the Hippocratic spirit, as well as enough intelligence, among Pennsylvania's doctors to show them a means of serving welfare fund beneficiaries without traducing their own ethical principles.

Behind The News—

Britain's Liberals Reviving

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Great Britain's tiny Liberal Party is dreaming of a political miracle.

Once dominant, the Liberals have but five seats now in the 630-seat House of Commons.

They were crushed, after World War I, between the Conservatives, their historic rivals, and the upstart Labor Party.

Mr. McCann

But in recent months there have been some important shifts in voting in "by-elections" — elections held in individual districts to fill Commons seats left vacant by death or other causes.

Conservatives Losing Strength

Though Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is personally popular, the Conservatives have been losing strength. The Laborites have increased their majorities in those seats they have won. The Liberals also have gained heavily in voting strength.

One reason for this is that a lot of Conservatives have been staying away from the polls. It is largely because of this that the Labor vote has increased relatively as compared to the Conservative vote.

But Liberal candidates have been polling votes so large—even though not enough to win elections—that both Conservative and Labor party leaders appear to be somewhat worried.

It seems inconceivable that the Liberals can make themselves again a real power, in House of Commons representation, for a long time.

Young, Enthused Leaders

But their new, young, enthusiastic leaders believe they are on the way and that their party will become a "third force" in British politics between the right - wing Conservatives and the left - wing Laborites.

The Liberals are aiming at presenting candidates in about 200 districts in the next general election, which may be held at any time up to May, 1960.

By spotting their men in close districts, they hope to win enough seats to put them on a long, slow rise to future powers.

Quotes from The News

By UNITED PRESS

SEA ISLAND, Ga. — Air Force Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, in saying the United States has the military power to devastate Russia if it launches a surprise attack:

"At the present time we have retaliatory striking forces designed to deal the Soviet Union an immediate devastating blow should such retaliation be necessary."

MARIANNA, Pa. — Coal miner Michael Knizner, 45, on being rescued badly burned from a mine blast that killed five men and injured six:

"Someone hold me . . . I can't hold onto anything."

HOLLYWOOD—Prosecutor William L. Ritzi, on the possibility of a hung jury in the lengthy Confidential magazine criminal libel trial:

"If we get a hung jury this time we will try them again and again until we convict them."

MIAMI BEACH — Outgoing Teamsters President Dave Beck, in a telegram to George Meany refusing a second invitation to explain corruption charges against his union by the AFL-CIO:

"The Teamsters are the largest labor organization in the world. We have done a great job of organizing and we can handle our own business, and we don't run."

NEW YORK — Carmen Basilio, following his split-decision middleweight title victory over Sugar Ray Robinson:

"Sugar Ray Robinson is a great fighter, but I beat him. That makes me a great fighter, doesn't it?"

Merry-Go-Round—

Pearson Aboard Big Carrier

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is reporting on the U. S. 6th Fleet maneuvers in the Mediterranean.)

ABOARD USS FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT — At 5:30 this morning a call to battle stations sounded over the ship's loud speaker. I fumbled my way on deck in my pajamas. On the way I looked in the galley and asked the Filipino mess boy:

"What's the alarm for?"

"This is exercise in case of war."

"What are you doing?"

"Making coffee."

"Don't you have to go on deck and fight?"

Mr. Pearson

"Later. Men need coffee in case of war too."

The Mediterranean was warm and balmy in the early grey dawn, not a ripple, much too pleasant for war. Shadowy figures passed me in the dark, going to battle stations. Close by they manned a 3-inch gun. Some of them looked groggy for lack of sleep, and I learned later that they had been working almost round the clock, as men on a warship must in peacetime battle maneuvers, as well as war.

The 5-inch guns below me began pointing up, down, fore and aft, as at an approaching enemy. On the flight deck a jet Sky-raider warmed up, felt the jerk of the catapault and roared off the ship to watch for enemy planes. The force of the air, backwashed from the jet, almost knocked me over. The crew launching her, lay flat on deck or ducked to the catwalk below. One man who crawled beneath her to release the holding cable, rolled over and over to get out of the steam, then covered his face with his arms to escape the heat. This was routine. He wore a special headgear with goggles and soundproof ear muffs. Even at a distance, the heat was terrific.

Enemy Attacks

A British Canberra had been located 40 miles from the U. S. 6th Fleet formation, near enough to drop an atomic bomb. Fortunately she was British—not Russian—from the NATO fleet off Malta. Approaching at 500 miles an hour, she had to be intercepted, and jet after jet zoomed off the Roosevelt's flight deck, an average of a minute apart, to search the grey Mediterranean for this simulated enemy.

Off the starboard side, a helicopter began to dance low over the water, like a sea-gull barely skimming the waves. Called an "Angel", it stays in the air to rescue men when the carrier is launching planes. But there were no men to rescue and the copter did a hop-skip-and jump over the water like a school girl at recess time.

A dove flew onto the gun turret just below me. We were a long way from either Greece or Italy and it must have flown many miles. It looked tired. The gunner's mate held out his hand— a friendly hand—but the dove flew off. In contrast to the dancing helicopter, it could hardly move.

Soon it came back, tried to light on a radio antenna, couldn't make it, finally fluttered onto a lower deck. No place for a dove to rest in the tense, suspicious Near East except a warship. That may be symbolic.

Things I Didn't Know Before an Airplane Carrier — Toughest job on a carrier is parking planes. If you think parking your car downtown is tough, take a look at the problem of Lt. COM. A. E. Monahan, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, flight deck officer of the Roosevelt. He has 70 planes to juggle around, can't keep any of them on the runways, has to park them with split second timing as homing jets land on the carrier minutes apart. . .Monahan operates a chart nicknamed "the weejee board" which tells him where each plane is, whether it's fueled, being repaired, whether the wing tanks are to be fueled etc. . .Operations on the flight deck move like clockwork. They have to. A mistake means a life. Every man has his job, and his jersey is colored, to designate that job. A man handling gasoline, fire-extinguisher or ordnance wears a red jersey. A man wearing green handles the catapault and launching gears; blue are pushers to get planes off the deck; orange are plane haulers who drive little tractors like baggage men in a railroad station. Yellow is worn by flight directors, while brown by maintenance captains. K. E. Humphries, Riverton, Wyo., showed me how he made sure a Banshee was in good shape before he turned her over to the pilot, had to sign a statement to that effect.

Things You May not Know About Carriers — Salt water is pumped into the bottom of gasoline tanks as the gas is pumped out. This is to prevent gas fumes and explosions in half empty tanks. The salt water remains in the bottom, doesn't mix with the gasoline. . .The flight deck of the FDR is so broad it equals the width of the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth placed side-by-side. . .The repair and maintenance deck of the FDR looks like the biggest garage in the world. . .The crew of the FDR consumes 16,630 loaves of bread per day, 35,000 pounds of fruit and vegetables, 100,000 cups of coffee per day, almost no tea, 62,500 cups of milk per day, and 23,750 pounds of meat. . .The man responsible for making this edible is chief cook Ralph Potito, formerly of Boston, now from St. Petersburg, Fla. He has 175 men under him, including bakers Paul Raddatz of Annapolis and Frank Thompson of Pensacola who bake better butterscotch pies than I've ever eaten ashore. . .According to airman Ed Brock, Lake Charles, La., sailors are reading about as much history as fiction. When the FDR lands in Athens, Rome, Istanbul, there's a run on the ship's library for history books about those countries; . .It takes three barbershops to cut the hair of the FDR's 3,000-man crew, a cobbler's shop to repair their shoes, four ship's stores, a tailor's shop, two soda fountains, one dry cleaning plant, to say nothing of four doctors. . .The ship's power plant is capable of providing electricity to 4,000,000 homes.

The Woman's View—

Christian Dior Takes A Backward Look

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Christian Dior came out today with a new look—the backward look.

The French designer put away scissors, temporarily, and picked up pen to write his autobiography, "Christian Dior And I" (E. P. Dutton Co.)

He traced the growth of his dressmaking establishment in Paris from 1947, when his "new look" set off an international style revolution, to the present with his name a household word, his label on everything from furs to shoes ad perfumes. The book also gives plenty of insight into Dior, the man—a shy, often superstitious and amazingly modest person, — equipped with a good sense of humor.

Gay Pauley

Dior said that as designer he had been dubbed "madman, criminal, megalomanic, genius, grand vizier, emperor . . ." But "my real hobby," he said, "is architecture. It has fascinated me ever since I was a child. Prevented . . . from gratifying this passion, I found outlet for it in dress design."

War Inspired Changes

Dior disclosed it was a fortune teller who in 1919 predicted his future. "You will suffer poverty," she said. "But women are lucky for you . . . you will make a great deal of money out of them and you will travel widely." Fortune tellers also advised him to link up after World War II with Marcel Boussac, the French textile magnate.

What inspired the "new look?"

"As a result of wartime uniforms, women looked and dressed like Amazons," Dior explained. He said he designed for "flower-like women", clothes with "rounded shoulders, full busts, willowy waists above enormous spreading skirts . . ."

"The style that was hailed as new and original was nothing but the sincere and natural expression of a fashion I had always sought to achieve," he added.

Dior's 1946-47 changes made him famous immediately and brought him to this country to receive fashion acclaim. But in Chicago, he recalled, housewives picketed him, shouting "Down with the new look . . . Burn Monsieur Dior . . . Christian Dior, go home."

Design Creates Furor

The "H" silhouette a few years later caused just as much a furor.

It was immediately named "the flat look", the designer recalled. "but it had never been my intention to create a flatness which would bring to mind a string bean."

One irate male, a farmer in Idaho, wrote:

"With your so-called genius, you have succeeded in disfiguring my wife. What would you say if I sent her to you!"

Dior said the most successful fashion "wears itself out the quickest because it is overly imitated. Obviously, uniforms have the longest life."

The Views of Others—

Lawrence Calls Black, White in County Talk

(From the Valley Daily News, Tarentum)

Thousands of Pittsburgh citizens regard Mayor David L. Lawrence as a great civic leader. We wonder what they would have thought if they could have listened the other night while he heaped praise upon the discredited Westmoreland County district attorney's office.

Lawrence cast aside the toga of statesman in which he appears in his home city, and put on the shabby garb of the professional politician when he spoke at a Democratic rally near Irwin.

Its purpose was to ballyhoo the Democratic judicial candidacies of Judge Edward G. Bauer, who is seeking re-election, District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco and Judge David H. Weiss, formerly an assistant in Sculco's office.

Lawrence must have clamped his tongue tight in his cheek and taken a few deep breaths before uttering these words about Sculco and Weiss:

"They have gone through the crucible of the district attorney's office and have gained the experience essential to being a good judge."

Then he added:

"They have been tried and not found wanting. They have demonstrated to you voters that they deserve your support."

Yes, sir, that is what the man said about an office that is notorious for its permitting racketeers and other criminals to operate almost at will, while countenancing some of the worst forms of corruption.

That is what he said about two men who must share a great deal of responsibility for the fact that Westmoreland County has been shamed before the entire nation through the publicity it has received as a haven for racketeers and other types of criminals.

If any two public officials ever failed to carry out their duty and scorned their responsibility it is Sculco and Weiss. That they should have the brass in the face of their dismal records, to ask the people to promote them to places on the bench is beyond comprehension.

And that the mayor of a great city would have the effrontery to stand up before a group of Westmoreland voters and feed them such ridiculous nonsense is beyond comprehension, too.

The action of Mayor Lawrence is an insult to those decent men and women of Westmoreland County who are fighting a hard battle against great odds to wrest control of their courts from the racketeer element and to restore to them their integrity and honor. He has done Westmoreland County and its people a great disservice. He has struck a blow against good government.

And he has disappointed many of his friends who always have believed that although he was a master politician, Mayor Lawrence would never be guilty of such gall as to stand up before a group of intelligent men and women and try to tell them that black is white.

The News regrets to report to his constituents that Judge Samuel H. Weiss of Allegheny County, as toastmaster, took part in the glorification of Sculco and Weiss — and rotten government.

The Lighter Side—

N. Zealand Glowworm Cave Is Wonderful

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —The world is so full of a number of things, but down in New Zealand there is one thing that—as the poet Hammerstein once said of dames—is absolutely not in any form, shape, or fashion like any other.

This Down-Under wonder is brought to mind by an advertisement currently appearing in American magazines urging tourist travel into the Southwest Pacific. "Only New Zealand," it says, "has a glowworm grotto." How right they are. And it's magnificent.

I suppose I've traveled around the world, to places peculiar and wonderful, as much as the next person. But I've never been more surprised and awestruck than in that deep cave on New Zealand's North Island. Ten years later, the excitement of the place is still fresh in me.

As you descend on foot into the mazes of the cave you see the usual spattering of stalactites and stalagmites, but nothing very spectacular, and you find yourself reflecting that you've been in many better caves than this back home.

But you go ever deeper, and finally the guide says "shh" and leads you to an opening through which you look down onto an underground river, strangely and softly alive with light when compared with the black night of the cave.

Then you look at the vaulted ceiling over the river, and it's like seeing the heavens on a clear night. Millions upon millions of tiny, glowing lights. The guide says a few words, and the lights nearest you disappear. It seems the glowworms are so sensitive to sound that they turn off their lights at the least noise.

You go down to the river and get in a small boat, which the guide pulls along by clutching a wire strung overhead. This journey is the top event. You glide from room to room under a brilliant display of Milky Ways, constellations, super-galaxies of glowworms.

All this is in utter silence, broken only by the occasional pink of a drop of water falling from the high stone ceiling into the river. The hush and mystery make you think of "that deep, romantic cavern" which Coleridge said was "a lonely place, as holy and enchanted as e'er beneath a waning moon was haunted by a woman wailing for her demon lover."

St. Paul Mission Group Convenes

A missionary program highlighted last night's meeting of the Faith Lippard Missionary Society of St. Paul Lutheran Church. It was held at the home of Mrs. J. Karl Beery of Indian Hill, Belle Vernon R. D.

Mrs. Jesse Symons led the mission discussion titled "We Look At Ourselves." She pointed out the four phases of the mission program: material for a spiritual growth; program material; mission study and Christian service work.

Mrs. Symons chose as her spiritual text, "Be Ye Doers Not Hearers of the Word." This led to a general discussion among the members concerning a program to be followed in enlisting every woman in the church in promoting the missionary program.

Business Reports

Mrs. George Kachur was in charge of the business session, and she asked the chairmen of the standing committees to report on their activities.

Mrs. James Shrading, mission study chairman, outlined plans for the valley mission study classes for women of all Lutheran Churches of the valley. The first one will be held on Oct. 17 in Charleroi. The Faith Lippard group will have charge of the topic study and the theme will be "Cross and Crisis in Japan."

Mrs. Franklin Oelschlager, Christmas project chairman, outlined the work to be done by the society during the holiday season. The group will remember the men at the Industrial Home for the Aged, which is part of the Lutheran Service program. Clothing and cookies will be sent.

Ways and means chairman, Mrs. Frank Maykovich, announced that the sale of candy and ribbon will be continued.

Thank Offering

Mrs. Paul Trout, who will arrange for the annual public Thank Offering service, announced that a speaker has already been secured for the event though the exact date in November has not been selected. The speaker will be Robert Ragnuth of British Guinea, who is attending Theil College.

The women decided to add a sick visitation committee to the standing committee list. It will include Mrs. Oelschlager, chairman, Mrs. Donald Nedrow and Mrs. Ralph Rose. These women will visit any member of the society, who is ill. If possible this program will be expanded to include all members of the church.

Mrs. Trout gave a report on a missionary meeting she recently attended in Donora.

Hilltop Fire Auxiliary Plans Novel Party

Plans were made for a "come as you are party" when the Ladies Auxiliary or Hose House 2 met in September session in the Hilltop fire station. There were 18 members present, and the president, Helen Murin, was in charge.

Mrs. Anna Dziyak, chaplain, conducted the opening devotionals.

Officer's reports were given during the business session. Anna Mae Kobaly, co-chairman of the social committee,e reported in the absence of Mary Bartosik.

The "come as you are party" will feature the October meeting. A member of the committee will visit each member of the auxiliary before the meeting, and an exchange of box lunches will feature the social hour.

Members observing September birthdays were presented with handkerchiefs and greetings. They are Anna Dziyak, Matilda Furio and Edith Salotti.

Luncheon was served by the hostesses, Betty Fal, LaVerne Hubert, Bea Reabe, Bertha Orsilli and Anna Dziyak.

Prizes Awarded At Card Party Held Last Night

A card party held last night by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Eagles at the Aerie Home on Schoonmaker Ave. was well attended.

Guest prizes were won by Helen Aubrey and Bill Stetsko. The special prizes were presented to Helen Harrison, Rose Rohland and Ann Toussaint.

Five hundred was played and those receiving awards were Hazel Byron and Lena Venneri; pinochle, Mrs. Loy and Tillie Bednarczyk; euchre, Catherine Cherwin and Elizabeth Sabo.

Luncheon was served by a committee including Irene Vivio, Doris McLaughlin, Catherine Cherwin, Geraldine Elyanich, Angeline Imbrogno, Ann Vivio, Mary Santora and Mildred Spielman.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Clark, Monongahela, a daughter, eight pounds, nine ounces, Sept. 23, at 1:40 p.m., at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hoskins, Monessen, a son, eight pounds, 13 ounces, Sept. 23, at 5:20 a.m., at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zunic, Belle Vernon, a daughter, eight pounds, six ounces, Sept. 23, at 8:34 p.m., at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Smorgasbord Is Planned Here by PTA Committee

Further plans were discussed for the smorgasbord being held under the sponsorship of the ways and means committee of the Monessen Parent Teacher Association at a meeting held yesterday in the High School auditorium.

Mrs. John Stieska, who will serve as chairman, with Mrs Everett Vernaccini as co-chairman asked the cooperation of the workers to make the event as successful as the one held last year.

The supper will be held Oct. 22 in the High School cafeteria. It will be open to the public, and tickets may be obtained through the homeroom mothers.

Another planning meeting has been scheduled for next Tuesday afternoon at 10 in the auditorium. All hospitality chairmen and building chairmen are asked to attend. Anyone wishing to assist with the affair and unable to attend next Tuesday's meeting should contact Mrs. Stieska at MU 4-9215.

The proceeds of the event will be used for the current PTA project supplying electric water coolers for the school buildings.

Two Activities Are Planned by Trinity Guild

Two events have been scheduled for the members of the Women's Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church. Next Sunday morning they will join the other women of the church for a corporate Holy Communion service at 8 a.m.

The Rev. David Dillion Jr. will be the celebrant, and following the service breakfast will be served. Mrs. Jack Skekel and Mrs. David Dillon Sr. will be in charge.

On Wednesday, Oct. 2, the women will conduct a rummage sale at the vacant store room at Fifth St. and Schoonmaker Ave. Mrs. Joseph Chelen is general chairman and will assign the workers to the time they are to be present. Rummage will be brought to the store the evening before the sale.

MRS. ROBERT J. ZEBULA — Before her marriage last Saturday Mrs. Robert J. Zebula was Kay Semich. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Semich of Fairhope. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zebula, Brownfield. The couple was wed in St. John the Baptist Greek Catholic Church of Uniontown. After a Virginia wedding trip the couple will live temporarily with the bridegroom's parents.

Holy Name Confraternity Plans for October Bazaar

Many unusual activities will highlight the annual bazaar to be held by the Confraternity of Christian Mothers of the Most Holy Name of Jesus Church. It has been set for Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6, and will be held in the church hall on Reed Ave.

The festivities are scheduled to begin with the children's matinee on Thursday afternoon. Special features will be planned.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings there will be booths arranged for a bake sale, needlework, white elephant, parcel post and many other articles. There will be games played nightly.

On Friday evening there will be a bean soup and pirohi supper served from 4 to 7 p.m. in the hall. Take out orders may be placed with Mrs. Anna Kaminecky at MU 4-8325, Mrs. Anna Gogol at MU 4-7808, Mrs. Mary Mervinsky at MU 4-5445 and Mrs. Mary Baron at MU 4-4631.

Pizza will be the specialty for Saturday night.

On Sunday the affair will conclude with a card and game party.

Mrs. Mary Stofan is general chairman of the affair with Mrs. Mary Bartus and Mrs. Sue Martin as co-chairmen. The general public may attend.

The Original Chatterbox Club Is Entertained

The Original Chatterbox Club met at the home of Gloria Guzzie on Motheral Ave. last night. Cards were played.

Winning high score prize was Elaine Seftas. Other prizes were won by Cedella Smertka, Ann Kantsi and Elaine Seftas, special award.

Frances Domyancic was a guest.

Luncheon was served, and Carole Milika of Schoonmaker Ave. was named hostess in two weeks.

New Junior C.D. of A. Troop To Be Formed

Plans have been made for the organization of new troops in the Junior Court Catholic Daughters of America, and another organization meeting has been announced.

It will be held tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Henry D'Alonzo at 28 Court Ave., Montraver Plan. All Catholic ninth grade girls not already affiliated with the Junior C.D. of A. are invited to attend.

LOCALS

Harry McCraw, president of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and James Hill recently attended the regional conference of FEPC in New Castle. Outstanding speakers discussed the conference theme "How NAACP Branches and members can help promote employment on merit through distributive education." The relationship of the NAACP to the PFEPC was also discussed.

Mrs. Frank Bosco of Hillcrest Ave. spent the week end in Philadelphia attending a meeting of the State Women's Council of the Sons of Italy of which she is treasurer. Plans for several activities were outlined for this newly formed organization.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Eagles will meet tomorrow evening in the Eagles Home. The officers will meet at 7 o'clock and the regular lodge at 8o 'clock.

Mrs. Fred Campana of Reed Ave. is getting along nicely at her home after being a patient in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Robert Mayllen Sr. of 101 Schoonmaker Ave. is a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. His room number is 201.

Mrs. Roy Wilmert is confined to her home on Morgan Ave. by illness.

Regina Lodge Program Plans To Be Outlined

Plans for the coming year will be outlined and standing committee chairmen will be named tomorrow evening when the Regina Lodge of the Sons of Italy meets in the lodge rooms at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank Bosco, president, will be in charge and she will also give reports on the state convention she attended in Erie, the national convention she attended in San Francisco and the Women's State Council meeting she attended in Philadelphia.

During the social hour there will be the observance of all August and September birthdays. Mrs. Helen Mazzer and Mrs. Marie Capuano will be chairmen of the hostess committee.

B'nai B'rith Women Plan Benefit Party

B'nai B'rith Women of Monessen announced plans for a benefit card party to be held on Sunday evening. Contract and duplicate bridge will be played at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Albert, 25 Montraver Dr.

Other games will be in play at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Rosenson, 1225 Leeds Ave.

There will be prizes and refreshments.

C-M Hospital Auxiliary Holds Luncheon Session

Fall flowers decorated the tables when the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Auxiliary met yesterday afternoon in Donora Elks Club for a "grab bag luncheon."

Mrs. Ralph Evans asked the invocation.

Mrs. T. C. Montgomery, auxiliary president, extended the welcome to the social affair, which replaced the usual business session.

There was a brief informal discussion of future activities including tag day which is scheduled for Saturday in Belle Vernon, Fayette City, Charleroi and Donora. An October date will be chosen for tag day in Monessen. Mrs. Alex Irvine and Mrs. Walter Spragg of the ways and means committee announced plans for this fund raising project.

Mrs. James Stewart presented the fall floral centerpiece used on the table.

Cards were played after the serving. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Melvin Tubin, Mrs. Evan Thomas, Mrs. Lawrence Cosner, Mrs. William Clippman, Mrs. Ralph Evans, Mrs. James Sellew, Mrs. Michael Fasekas, Mrs. R. James Currie, Mrs. Sam Crawford, Mrs. Francis Slezak, Mrs. Paul Nicoden, Mrs. Frances Smith, Mrs. Ralph Koehler, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. Joseph Bucko and Mrs. Joseph Helzelsouer.

Plans were made for the next meeting, which will be a business session on Monday, Oct. 14, in the conference room at the hospital.

S.O.S. Class Elects Officers Last Night

A meeting of the S.O.S. Class of the First Methodist Church held last night in the church featured the election of officers. Named were Mrs. Lois Jones, president; Mrs. Mary Gilman, vice president; Mrs. Sara LaRiccia, financial secretary and Frances Paulman, recording secretary.

Paul Shives, retiring president, was in charge of the session which he opened with prayer.

During the summer months the class has been studying the Book of Revelations under the leadership of Frank L. Paulman. This is now completed.

The class voted to purchase a book to place in the church library in memory of the late R.S. Kelly.

Tentative plans were discussed for a Halloween party to be held next month.

Match Wits With Phil Fumble

You football fans now have a chance to match wits with Phil Fumble, our grid "guesspert", in The Daily Independent football contest which opened yesterday . . . In fact you'll be one up on the fumbling, Phil, as you can take a crack at the top Eastern college tilts and some professional games in addition to the high school encounters . . . Can't understand why we are knocking ol' Phil so much as he did quite all right last week compared to the week before in his opener guesses (we mean predictions) . . . How about the Oklahoma fan who gives 30 points on every Sooner game and "usually wins?" What a team!

We'll bet Monessen High tennis coach Antoinette Valentine tip-toes down the steps leading from the Monessen gym to the dressing rooms during girls gym classes from now on, and here's the explanation — Last Friday the tennis mentor slipped and fell down the 14 steps suffering severe bruises over her entire body . . . It was at first rumored she had suffered a broken arm and leg but there were no fractures (except pride) although the injuries were every bit as painful as a break . . . She is at home now after a brief hospital stay for X-ray exams . . . Greyhound athlete Ken Walters had quite a day for himself Saturday. He passed his auto driver's test in the afternoon, and then celebrated the accomplishment in the Monessen win over Monongahela Saturday night.

Ex-Greyhounds Now Opponents

Two former Monessen High School teammates will oppose each other on Oct. 11 when freshmen football squads from Wake Forest and Clemson meet in Winston-Salem, N. C. Steve Mahovlich, 6-3, 225 pounds, is a member of the Wake Forest frosh while Frank (Bucky) Zoretich, 6-0, 200-pounder, is on the Clemson freshman team. Zoretich is a recent graduate of MHS while Mahovlich prepped a year at Massanutten in Woodstock, Va. . . . Taking a page from Kentucky and Maryland's racing books with their "Run for the Roses" (Churchill Downs) and "Run for the Blackeyed Susans" (Pimlico) Rolling Rock Hunt Racing Assn. has dubbed its annual charity steeplechase set for Wednesday, October 2 and Saturday, Oct. 5 as the "Run for the Laurel."

Jim Leeper, junior high principal at Rostraver, worked the California Teachers-Dennison game Saturday and reported the visitors had a powerful team. He looks for better things from the Vulcans against more evenly matched foes . . . Jim reported that ex-'Hounds, Delmar and Fleming Mosely played fine ball for CSTC . . . Speaking of Rostraver Junior High, in case we neglected to do so before, here's a pat on the back to that school for its fine football stadium where every seat due to a "steep" arrangement is practically a 50-yarder . . . The Litle Leopard athletic plant has one of the finest press boxes in the area although a bit small . . . Considering the rivalry its amazing how well Rostraver and West Newton get along off the field.

'All 'Irish' Games on Radio

Notre Dame's many fans in this area will be glad to hear that all Fighing Irish games will be carried on radio in this area this season at a time when district games have been concluded . . . KQV will carry the games starting at 4:30 o'clock (on tape) with Joe Boland and Harry Wismer handling the play-by-play and color commentary . . . By the way the Irish have two open dates, October 12 and 19, which gives them a three-week layoff, very unusual for college teams . . . The Johnson twins, Bill and Bob, of Monongahela High, both of whom ran well against the Greyhounds Saturday night, never played football until this year. They attended Carroll Township Junior High where there was no grid team until this season.

Today's Sports Parade—

Buff Donelli on Spot With Son Quarterback

NEW YORK (UP)—This was 13 years ago when Buff Donelli was a hard-muscled, black-haired man coaching football at Duquesne.

He walked into the elevator in a Pittsburgh hotel during the baseball All-Star game and, after exchanging greetings, said:

"Come on out to the house and we'll talk football."

We sat around his comfortable living room and, finally Buff, in exasperation, said to his seven-year-old, Dick:

"For the last time, pick up your toys and get ready for bed."

Buff went into the kitchen and little Dick and the visitor scrambled around the living room floor picking up the toys.

So it came as something of a surprise, and a sad commentary on the passage of the years, when I visited a Columbia scrimmage today.

Still Muscled

Buff Donelli is still hard-muscled as he coaches the Columbia football team. Now, however, the hair is shot with gray and the man who was an All-America soccer and football player is wearing "cheaters".

But he's still talking in exasperation to his son, Dick.

Only Dick, quite naturally, isn't seven years old any more. He's 20 now, a solid 185-pounder who stands five feet, 11 inches. And he's Buff's number one quarterback this year.

Buff didn't plan it so. Nor would most coaches. It is a rarity when a coach handles his own son on the gridiron for many obvious reasons. Most of them like to see their sons play elsewhere and Buff, who was at Boston University when his son entered college, sent the boy to play under his old pal, Lou Little, at Columbia.

Lou stepped down this year, however, and Buff was tapped for the job, one of the most demanding in football because Columbia gridiron fortunes in the last few years have plunged to great depths. So now, Buff faces the problem of handling his son on the field.

Barks At Him

"It's a tough spot for the kid," he admits softly. "The trouble is that I am inclined to talk to him like a father. I say 'Do such and so' and I expect him to do it without question. If he doesn't, I bark at him but he set me straight by telling me: "Look, dad, the other players ask questions and you explain things to them. Treat me the same way."

So Buff has had to alter his parental thinking and, secretly, he is proud of the progress Dick is making.

Juniors Open '57 Season

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Monessen Junior High grid team will visit Brownsville Junior High for the 1957 opener for both teams.

The game was originally carded for tonight but switched at the last minute to a day contest.

Coach Al Romasco and his aide Joe Gladys will not be completely set on their starters until game time but leading candidates for the various positions have been the following: Tony Romasco, Lee Laszewski, Benny Jones and Harry Vernet at quarterback; Kenny DiaGiacomo, John Fedarko and Dave Bergsted at fullback; Damon Reed, Eddie Fiorill, Leonard Williams, John Kizzie, Stephen Bewszka, Ermand DiBortolomeo and Danny Lubrani at halfbacks to round out the ball-carrying department.

On the line Romasco and Gladys will choose ends from a group consisting of Ted Darby, Tom Felgas, Bill Malinchak, Abe Grueser, George Katsuleris and Anthony Caputo.

The two starting tackles will be chosen from Lawrence Masci, James Smarachek, Richard Yatchyshyn, Dave Kiefer, Anthony Vitale and Jerry Bartosik with Walter Rozycki, Ronald Grogan, Leslie Pettko, Andy Dzurinko, John Minniti and Robert Hornak the backfield guard hopefuls.

At center it'll be Dave Mallion, Joe Yadrick or Jerry Behanna.

Last season the locals posted a 3-2 record.

The home opener for the Romasco crew is next Wednesday night, at 7:30 o'clock, hosting Donora here.

Steelers Step Up Drills for Sunday Opener

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers, down to the National Football League 35-player limit, stepped up drills today in preparation for their season opener with Washington Redskins Sunday.

Len Bigbie, a rookie defensive end from East Texas State, was cut from the squad Tuesday. Bigbie was drafted 18th by the Steelers last winter and had been impressive in early exhibitions.

However, when veteran end Bill McPeak rounded into condition Coach Buddy Parker decided to release Bigbee.

Parker now has four players on his squad whom he drafted while head mentor with the Lions last year. They are Gerald Leahy, a linebacker from Colorado, tackle Dave Liddick from George Washington, quarterback Jack Kemp, Occidental, and slot back Bob Gunderman from Virginia.

Sid Fournet, a guard obtained in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams, arrived Tuesday in time to practice with the squad. Halfback Dean Derby, another Ram trade, is still en route.

Sugar to Decide Future Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson was expected to make a statement about his future today that would clarify the middleweight-welterweight picture.

Carmen Basilio won the middleweight crown from 37-year-old Robinson Monday night, but he can form no plans until he learns whether Sugar Ray will try to recapture the title or hang up his gloves.

Robinson's purse for Monday's fight was $483,666 (without movie money). It was the richest of his career; but it will shrink much under the U S Internal Revenue Bureau's anticipatory tax lien of $51,310 against it.

Basilio, whose purse was $211,629, said, "I'm clear with the income tax man."

Valko, Brown High In BM Electric

Blooming Mill Electric had Macs, Petes and Steves dropping decisions to Joes Rays and Buds yesterday.

Andy Valko had a 507 three-game mark and a 201 single high for top honors Cee Brown also rolled a 500 total, right on the button. Others scoring high were Ray Echart, Rudy Cheroki, Nick Tonini and Bob McKeever.

Standings — Rays 10-5, Buds 9-6, Petes 9-6, Joes 6-9, Steves 6-9, Macs 5-10.

Costella, Dacko Win In St. John's League

Costello and Dacko blanked Kerr and Joseph in St. Johns Bowling action last night.

Leading the scoring parade were Kay Joseph with a 151-335, Ann Roman 133, 323, Ann Dacko 113, 311 and Olga Kulenic 119, 277.

Standings — Costello 7-2, Dacko 6-3, Kerr 3-7 and Joseph 2-7.

BUBBLING OVER WITH GLEE — Johnny Logan pours champagne over head of Hank Aaron, who belted the 11th-inning homer that gave the Braves a 4-3 win over the St Louis Cardinals and the National league pennant. Scene is Milwaukee dressing room.

Flu Hits Greyhounds Bronson, Pascarella

As if Monessen High grid coach Armand Niccolai didn't have enough troubles, the flu epidemic, perhaps the Asian variety, has hit his line.

After losing veteran Bobo Aldrich due to an injury Niccolai had to do some switching around and now comes the flu to floor Vince Pascarella the other starting tackle in the opening game with Windber.

Bronson Also Ill

Also hit by the same infection is Ken Bronson, speedy halfback and leading 'Hound scorer.

Should both of these players remain on the sick list, Niccolai will fill in for Bronson with Ed Fayak, 5-11, 160-pound senior, Charles, Bill, 155-pound senior or Jimmy Lewitsky 144-pound sophomore.

At tackle Terry Throop may be nominated to move over from his guard post with Louis Gigglotti reserve center, taking over in Throop's guard slot.

Commenting on the Uniontown game here Friday night, Niccolai, said "We're working for speed for we'll have to really go to catch those fast Uniontown halfbacks."

The 'Hound coach also stated the feared the Red Raider passing attack with Quarterback Sanford tabbed as one of the best in the area.

"If we can catch them we'll stop them," Nick added.

Gallas, Jannotta Lead City Ladies

Monessen City Ladies League Bowling action showed Seton Hill Villa Maria, Vassar, Wheaton, and Mt. Mercy victories over Ladycliff, Bryn Mawr, Wellesley, Cedar Crest and Rosemont last night.

B Gallas had the three-game high of 443, R. Jannotta the single game top mark of 191. Other high point-makers were M. Koltash with a 437 three-game mark, topped by M. Opalinski's 440 while R. Jannotta also had an over-400 total with 411. J. Nicksick, V. Ellsworth, L. Zurich, L. O'Neil, M Lane, K. Kurowsky, S Matheson, M Malezija and J. LaPreste also rolled high totals.

Christian Mothers Top Slovak Loop

Christian Mothers and Ladies Auxiliary were Slovak Ladies Bowling League winners last night with the Mothers leading the scoring parade on a 1828 three-game mark and a 683 single high.

Mary Hardon and Mary Hornack with 414 and 405 totals respectively led the scoring, Hardon also rolling a 179 single game. Others in the point lead were Ann Troychak, Margaret Sassak and Rose Mayerchak.

Standings — Christian Mothers 5-1, Ladies Auxiliary 5-1, Holy Name 1-5 and Slovak Home 1-5.

Rosetti, Radic High In St. Gajetan Loop

Sisto Rosetti rolled a 202, Joe Radic a 470 three-game mark to share honors in St Cajetan Bowling last night as Georgetown, Loyola and St. Johns posted wins over St. Vincent, Notre Dame and Villanova.

Jefferson, Frank-Lin Midgets Post Wins by One-Point Margins

Lincoln, Vocational Bow in Real Thrillers; DeMarcomen Unbeaten

Two of the most thrilling games local Midget Football League fans have witnessed were played at the Memorial Stadium here last night with Frank-Lin edging Vocational 7-6 in the opener and Jefferson winning the "Battle of Unbeatens" with Lincoln, 13-12, in the nightcap.

Last night's victory gave Jefferson sole possession of first place with a 3-0 record to Lincoln's 2-1 mark.

58-Yard Touchdown Pass

In the opener it appeared Vocational, defending champions, were about to post their first victory of the '57 season. Quarterback Dick Kunsa and Fullback Ralph Nuzzaci teamed on a 58-yard touchdown pass play in the second quarter and held that lead until the fourth quarter.

Little Johnny Popovich was on the receiving end of a lateral from Robert Beveridge, who had hauled in a pass from Richard Cecilia for a Frank-Lin touchdown to tie the score at 6-all. The Frank-Lins then reversed the procedure somewhat when Cecilia passed to Popovich, who lateraled to Beveridge for the game-winning extra point.

Vocational almost came back to pull it out of the fire when Kunsa began finding Nuzzaci and Russell Jones with passes but Beveridge intercepted one and Alex Kachmarik's lads ran out the clock.

Flu Hits Squads

The first place battle in the night cap found Jefferson without the services of ace halfback Eric Crabtree due to the flu and Lincoln weakened by the flu bug.

Even without their ace Jefferson seemed to be rolling to an easy win until the fourth-quarter when a 13-0 lead dwindled to 13-12.

The first touchdown came in the second period when Tackle George Brown intercepted a Lincoln pass to set up a pass from Richard Steele to James Frezzell for a 15-yard touchdown and a repeat for the extra point.

Keith Bellora added the second six-pointed on a 16 yard sweep around left end to climax a drive. A pass for the extra point failed.

As the fourth period opened the Lincolns became "fired up" and proceeded to march 40 yards with Bill Tansmore and Hamlin leading the way until Tansmore scored from the five-feet out. The extra point try failed.

Finally after threatening several times, Hamlin took personal charge and ran the ball to Jefferson's 17 and after it reached the 15 punched it over but his extra point run was short and 13-12 score was set. The game ended a short while later.

First downs favored Jefferson 13-6 while Frank-Lin had an 8-6 lead in the first game.

Next week it's Frank-Lin v Lincoln and Vocational vs. Jefferson.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

The Waggle

The waggle may seem unimportant to you, but it's a basic part of every good golf swing.

It breaks up tension and "freezing" over the ball. It also helps give rhythm and tempo to the swing and that's what you ought to try for.

That's why all pros use the waggle as a preliminary "must" before actually starting the swing.

But the waggle can be overdone. Just lift the club and, with your wrists loose and relaxed, make two or three passes over the ball as your body settles into position for the actual swing. If you waggle too much, you'll only build up tension, not relieve it. And the big don't in golf is: "DON'T CREATE TENSION!"

Only 6,702 Fans Say Goodbye to Beloved Bums

BROOKLYN, (UP —There's a haunted house in this town today called Ebbets Field.

At 10:17 p.m. Tuesday night, the Dodgers finished what probably was the last baseball game they'll ever play in Brooklyn—a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates—and turned the field over to the ghosts of games gone by.

Only 6,702 diehard fans out of what once was baseball's most loyal and fanatic following were on hand for the "death" of the Dodgers.

Since the Dodgers have yet to admit officially that they're leaving, the occasion was not marked by any ceremonies.

But the players, the gans, the park employes, the TV and radio broadcasters and the sports writers marked the passing of the Bums in their own way.

The players held a beer-and-crab fingers "farewell party," courtesy of catcher Roy Campanella. The writers and the broadcasters joined in. The park employes gathered in little groups under the stands for farewell toasts. Some of the fans were seen crying.

Haney Names Spahn As Series Starter After 21st Victory

By TIM MORIARTY

Fred Haney can make it official now—Warren Spahn will open the World Series for the Milwaukee Braves a week from today.

Spahn clinched the assignment Tuesday night when he beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-1, in the "hangover" game of the National League race. The victory was the 36-year old left-hander's 21st—and also just about clinched his right to be named the major league pitcher of the year.

Hank Aaron, the Braves' No. 1 candidate for most valuable player honors, again swung the big bat for the new NL champions. Aaron, whose two - run 11th-inning homer wrapped up the flag Monday night, hammered a grand-slam homer off Sam Jones in the first inning and from then on it was all downhill for Spahn.

Williams Hits 38th

Ted Williams hammered out his 38th homer of the year to give the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators. Williams grounded out in the first inning, however, and ended a string of 16 consecutive appearances at the plate in which he reached base safely. He struck out and walked in his other two appearances to dip one point to .384.

Frank Sullivan was the beneficiary of Williams' homer, chalking up his 14th win after a fine duel with rookie Hal Griggs.

The Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 7-6, the Brooklyn Dodgers played what was probably their final game of all time at Ebbets Field and scored a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Philadelphia Phillies whitewashed the New York Giants, 5-0, and the Cincinnati Redlegs whipped the Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 11-9, in other games.

Ron Jackson had four hits and Nelson Fox and Earl Battey three each to lead the White Six' 16-hit attack which brought Don Rudolph his first win and ended Kansas City's longest victory streak of the year at five.

6,702 See Finale

Danny McDevitt struck out nine and yielded only five hits for the Dodgers who bowed out at Ebbets Field before a corporal's guard of only 6,702 fans. The loss went to Ben Daniels, who made his first start in the majors after being called up from Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League.

Curt Simmons pitched a four-hitter for his 12th victory for the Phillies who kayoed Curt Barclay in 1 1-3 innings. Ed Bouchee had three hits and Bob Bowman knocked in two runs for the Phillies.

Wally Post homered in each game as the Redlegs pounded out a total of 22 hits and retained a mathematical chance of overtaking the third - place Dodgers. Hal Jeffcoat received credit for his 12th win in the opener and Don Gross for his seventh in the nightcap.

Pirates Lose, Help Brooklyn Say Goodbye

BROOKLYN (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today held the distinction of probably being the last team to play the Dodgers in Ebbets Field.

Danny McDevitt scattered five hits and struck out nine Tuesday night to beat the Pirates, 2-0.

It was the Dodgers' last game of the year and probably the last of all time at Ebbets Field.

Some 6,702 loyal Brooklyn fans watched McDevitt pick up his first victory at Ebbets Field as he outpitched Pirate rookie Ben Daniels, up from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League, who was making his first major league start. Daniels gave up only five hits.

There was no formal ceremony to mark the game, inasmuch as no official announcement of the contemplated Brooklyn move to Los Angeles has been made. However, organist Gladys Goodding played a selection of sad songs

Bobsledding Out

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UP) — There will be no bobsledding in the 1960 winter Olympic games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

That was determined Tuesday when the International Olympic Committee, which is holding its Congress here, approved a proposal to drop bobsledding made by the organizers of the Squaw Valley games.

Pitt in Final Drills Before Coast Trip

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Coach Johnny Michelosen will put his Pitt Panthers through their final local practice session today before the squad flies to the West Coast to meet the Oregon Webfoots.

The only member absent from Tuesday's 45-minute scrimmage was fullback Dick Bowen, who sprained an ankle in the Oklahoma game. Bowen was expected to make the trip to Portland, Ore., for Saturday night's clash with the Webfoots.

Meanwhile, the school announced that seven men were added to the traveling squad — all professors. The school decided to send the tutors along because the Panthers will be away from classes for 10 days. Classes will be held each morning and also while en route to the coast.

The Panthers leave the Greater Pittsburgh airport at 9 a.m. Thursday.

New York Group to Offer Pirates, Three Other Clubs NY 'Switch'

NEW YORK (UP)—Mayor Robert Wagner's optimistic statement that New York may acquire a major league team to replace the Giants and Dodgers was founded on the fact that a group of local businessmen is planning to make offers to four National League teams.

These teams, the United Press learned, are the Cincinnati Redlegs, Philadelphia Phillies, Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs. The Redlegs already have turned down one offer from the group which, incidentally, includes a current stockholder in a National League club.

CINCINNATI — The group is sure the Redlegs are for sale but that Powell Crosley does not want to sell it to someone who will take it from Cincinnati

PHILADELPHIA — The group has no idea whether Bob Carpenter will sell but will make him an offer.

PITTSBURGH — One member of the group told the United Press. "If the Redlegs do not come to New York, I believe there is a very good chance it will be the Pirates."

Pitt Favored by Six Over Oregon; Irish Underdog in Purdue Opener

By JOE SARGIS

NEW YORK (UP)—Stanford and Northwestern, a pair of teams offering Broadway oddsmakers little to go on, were rated "even" today for Saturday's nationally televised college football game of the week.

Both finished sixth in their respective conferences last year and few if any observers have picked them to finish higher this season.

However, the oddsmakers had decided "lines" on the nation's more highly regarded elevens. Texas A&M, Georgia Tech, Michigan State and Minnesota, ranked second, third, fourth and fifth, respectively this week by the United Press Board of Coaches, all were figured to score big wins.

Oklahoma Idle

Oklahoma, the defending national champion and the nation's top team in the first weekly rankings this season, is idle Saturday, but the Aggies are rated prohibitive favorites over Texas Tech in a Saturday night game, Georgia Tech is picked by 10 points over 16th ranked Southern Methodist, Michigan State gets the nod by 21 points over Indiana, and Minnesota is favored by 13 over Washington

Michigan, another leading Big Ten power, is picked by 14 over Southern California, a PCC title contender, while the Illinois-UCLA game at Los Angeles Friday night was rated "pick 'em."

Tennessee, a ranking southern power with only three tough games on its 1957 schedule, tangles with Auburn, one of those toughies., and is picked by seven points. This game is expected to show how far the Vols can go toward a high national ranking.

Notre Dame, hopeful of bouncing back from the worst season in its long and colorful career, was rated a one-point underdog against Purdue in its season opener, while California and Washington State were rated even and Cornell was picked by two points over Colgate in other expected close games.

In other leading intersectional games, Pittsburgh, which bowed to Oklahoma last Saturday, was the choice by six points over Oregon, Army was picked by 19 over Nebraska in the Cadets' first game of the season, Syracuse was rated 14 points better than Iowa State, the improving Ohio State Buckeyes were made 13 points better than Texas Christian, and Oregon State was picked by eight over Kansas.

Duke, a perrenial southern power and the nation's ninth - ranked team, was picked by 20 points over Virginia. Baylor got the nod by a touchdown and extra point over Houston and Texas was picked by the same margin over Tulane.

In other games by sections, Navy by 21 over William and Mary, Penn State by 14 over Pennsylvania in the East; Maryland 7 over North Carolina State, West Virginia 6 over Virginia Tech, Mississippi 6 over Kentucky, Florida 13 over Wake Forest and Clemson 6 over North Carolina in the South; Wisconsin 21 over Marquette and Cincinnati 7 over Wichita in the Midwest; Arkansas 13 over Tulsa in the Southwest, and Colorado 13 over Utah in the Rockies.

Parties Harass First Negro in Levittown Area

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Bristol Township manager, Henry J. Rolfes Jr., issued a warning Tuesday that he would break up nightly house parties allegedly staged to harass William J. Myers Jr., first Negro to move into this previously all-white community.

The parties, staged in the vacant house next to the Myers home, have been marked by songs, loud music, bugle calls and fire crackers thrown on the Myers lawn. Myers said he has not had a good night's sleep since the parties began last Sunday.

Rolfes sent the warning letter to William A. Hughes, of Levittown, owner of the house. Rolfes said the house was used for an illegal purpose.

Hughes, who said he has not been able to rent the house since Myers moved in, turned it over rent-free to a group of some 30 citizens for the social gatherings.

State Police maintained a round the clock guard of the Myers home. The guard was ordered Monday after a conference between Myers and State Attorney General Thomas D. McBride.

Warning Issued on Toy Truck Paint

NEW YORK (UP) — Toy trucks made in Japan and possibly capable of killing or making life-long idiots of American children are presently on sale at toy counters across the nation, it was reported today.

A warning of potential danger in the high lead content of paint on the imported toys was sent during the week end to 0 state and 25 city health departments.

The warning report was sent out by the Toy Guidance Council which said the possibly deadly paint was disclosed in routine laboratory tests on toys it was considering listing as recommended playthings.

Melvin Freud, president of the council, said the tests were not yet conclusive. Six toys tested by four independent laboratories showed lead content of paint ranging as high as 22 per cent in one instance, but one laboratory's reports were consistently lower than the others.

American standards require that paints containing more than one per cent lead carry labels warning abainst their use on toys or nursery furniture.

Once the lead reaches the blood stream of a child it can cause death or permanent brain injury. The New York City health department said no treatment is known for its effects.

The toys tested were one toy electric fan and five metal trucks and autos ranging from 10 to 13 inches in length and selling for $1 and $2. The miniature vehicles included a Red Cross ambulance, a Shell oil truck and two Ford cars. Freud said the council had no knowledge as to whether the Red Cross or the two companies had authorized use of their names and insignia on the toys, which run by wind-up or friction processes.

He said the council bought the toys at retail in New York and does not know who manufactured them. They appear from trademark insignia to be the products of several different Japanese makers, he said.

Fall Hurts Actor

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP) — Movie star Paul Newman suffered a gash on his forehead when he slipped and fell in his motel bathroom Monday, his studio announced. However, after treatment he reported for shooting of the movie "Long, Hot Summer" at a Mississippi River landing near Baton Rouge.

Rain and Fog Hampers Girard Trial Testimony

CAMPWEIR, Japan (UP)—Jurisprudence took a beating today in the trial of U. S. Army Spl-3 William Girard.

The on-the-spot trial itself was called because of rain and fog, and one of the three Japanese judges trying him touched off a controversy by hinting the Ottawa, Ill., soldier would get off with a light sentence.

"I do not think it was deliberate murder," Judge Yuzo Kawachi told the United Press before today's session began.

Today's hearing was on top of Hill 55 of the Camp Weir firing range where Girard shot and killed Mrs. Naka Sakai, a Japanese scrap metal scavenger, last Jan. 30. He is charged with manslaughter in her death.

The area was shin deep in mud from recent rains. Then at midmorning more rain fell, forcing the court to take testimony under umbrellas. Finally fog enshrouded the twin - peaked firing range and Judge Kawachi called a halt to the proceedings.

Thursday's session will be held in the Maebashi district court building.

Report of 40 Survivors of Shipwreck False

HAMBURG, Germany, (UP)—The report that the U. S. naval transport Gieger had picked up 40 more survivors from the sunken German training ship Pamier brought short-lived joy to the nation today. The ship radioed the report was false.

The Zerseen Co., agents for the ship, was deluged with calls from anxious relatives who had become resigned to the fact only six of the 86 persons aboard the ship had been saved. It fired off a query to the Geiger and back came the heartbreaking denial.

In a radio message picked up by a German coastal radio station the captain of the Geiger said the only Pamier survivors he had aboard were the five rescued by the U. S. freighter Saxon and transferred to the Geiger Monday.

In addition, the U. S. Coast Guard in New York reported one of its cutters, the Absecon, picked up a lone survivor from a lifeboat drifting in the mid-Atlantic, some 600 miles west of the Azores.

Lions Club in Annual Family Picnic Sunday

The annual family picnic was held by members of the Belle Vernon Lions Club on Sunday at Deems Park. A large attendance at the affair marked the final outdoor event on the club social program.

Intermittent showers kept the picknickers from following through with the complete recreation program after the serving of the picnic dinner. There were games and special events for the young folks.

The club is planning for its first major fund raising activity of the fall season, a Band Festival to be staged at Bellmar High School stadium on Oct. 8.

The Pitt Marching Band will be featured along with several district high school bands with the Bellmar Band acting as host unit. Tickets for the festival may be procured from the Lions or from band members of the participating schools. Each school will receive a percentage for each ticket sold.

Girl Scout Troop Holds Cook-out

Members of Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 48 met on Monday evening for a cook-out at Monessen City Park. There were 18 present.

The girls gathered at 5:30 p.m. to prepare their outdoor meal. After dinner recreation was enjoyed.

The leader, Mrs. Dorothy Rex, was present along with Alice Sellaro, assistant and Mrs. Mary Braddock, committee woman.

The next regular troop meeting was set for Wednesday of next week at 4:45 at the Lynnwood Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Anna Gauger of Dunbar has returned to her home after visiting for several days with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lenhart of Speer St. Sunday guests at the Lenhart home were Martha and Elizabeth Ford of Uniontown.

The Good Fellowship group of the First Methodist Church will meet for a dinner session next Monday evening in the church social rooms. The meeting is postponed from Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Amerigo Franceschi of Graham St. spent the week end touring points of interest in Virginia. They visited Monticello enroute and also visited the Jamestown festival.

Nancy Neil of Belle Vernon was guest soloist when members of the Charleroi Assembly of the Order of Rainbow for Girls assisted in instituting a new assembly in Elizabeth.

Fire Co. Auxiliary Meets; Prize Winners Are Listed

Mrs. Rose Beazell, chaplain, conducted the opening ceremonies on Monday evening when the Ladies Auxiliary to Belle Vernon Fire Co. No. 2 met in the fire hall. The group joined in the pledge of allegiance, Lord's Prayer and singing of America. Mrs. Beazell also read an article, "If You Want Friends."

President Dorothy Wendel was in charge, and there were 33 members present. The committee prize was won by Rose Beazell and the auxiliary prize by Margaret Callahan. The special prize was won by Isabelle Kyle.

Bertha MacDonald reported on the ill members.

Mabel Yeaton, chairman of a committee in charge of revision of by-laws, read the new by-laws for the second time.

After benediction by Mrs. Beazell there was a social hour.

Winning prizes were Ina Crow, Ethel Venneri, Rose Checchi, Margaret Callahan, Dorothy Cefala, Harriet Neil, Isabelle Kyle, Doreen Wright, Carol Davenport, Bertha Forsberg, Betty Albright, Mabel Yeaton, Rhonda Cramer, Angie Delzangle and Dorothy Wendel.

Birthdays were celebrated and gifts were exchanged by Rose Beazell, Gerry Curcio, Ann Maksa and Mary Kessler. Mrs. Beazell was observing her 79th birthday anniversary.

Serving on the September committee were Ann Maksa, Betty Wagner, Adda Jackson and Josephine Teano.

Firemen Plan Special Week

North Belle Vernon Fire Co. met on Monday evening in the fire hall with the president, Vic Silvestro, in charge.

Plans were discussed for the observance of Fire Prevention week from Oct. 6 to 13. During that period William Vizza will visit the various schools and give talks on the subject. He will also arrange for fire drills.

The Halloween party was arranged for Oct. 26 in the fire hall.

Fire Chief Robert Whitelaw gave his report and announced that five new night suits were needed by the firemen. This purchase was authorized.

Protectors Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Maude Hammitt of Park Manor, Monessen, and Mrs. Lillie Wells were co-hostesses to members of the Protectors Club of the Belle Vernon Dames of Malta Sisterhood at the Hammitt home recently.

Officers were elected. They are Olga Martin, president; Alice Smith, vice president; Thelma Free, secretary and Susie Brown, treasurer.

Games were played and those winning prizes were Mrs. Hammitt and Mrs. Anna Hoffman. Luncheon was served.

Announcement was made of the installation set for Oct. 9 for the sisterhood.

Susie Brown and Alice Downes were named next hostesses.

Until the 1800's, public speakers in Engand began their addresses with the salutation, "Gentemen and Ladies."

Saturday Tag Day Planned For Hospital

Saturday will be tag day for the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Auxiliary in Belle Vernon. Tag days have been planned simultaneously in Belle Vernon, Charleroi, Fayette City and Donora. The Monessen tag day will be set at a later date.

Mrs. Alex Irvine of Belle Vernon and Mrs. Walter Spragg of Country Club Rd., ways and means chairmen, are in charge.

Annually the auxiliary members don their cherry red smocks and appear on the local streets soliciting funds to assist them in carrying on their many projects.

The project being undertaken by the women this year is the furnishing and staffing of the solarium in the new heart wing of the hospital.

Former Resident Dies in Texas

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Lillian Letot, formerly of Belle Vernon, in San Antonio, Texas, where she had been making her home. She died on Sept. 19 and funeral services were held on Monday.

Among her survivors are her sisters, Mrs. Erma Weaver of Charleroi, Mrs. Bertha Anderson of Crescent Heights and brothers, Bert and Irvin McCullough of Lynnwood, Harry of Belle Vernon, William of Donora and Clarence, also of Belle Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCullough and William McCullough went to San Antonio for the funeral.

Scatter Club Meeting Held; Names Officers

A social evening for members of the Scatter Club was held on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Joan Hixenbaugh of Charleroi.

Mrs. Angie Krutz conducted the business session during which two new officers were named. Mrs. Edna Roberts was named birthday treasurer and Mrs. Hixenbaugh, editor. Mrs. Betty Briggs gave the secretarial report.

The hostess served luncheon assisted by Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Peggy Savadeck.

Birthday anniversaries were observed by Mrs. Krutz, Mrs. Florence Ferguson and Mrs. Anna Quigley. The latter also received an anniversary gift.

Games were played and winning prizes were Mrs. Jay Strubakis, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Ferguson.

Mrs. Edith Katinsky was named next hostess.

Arizona Hit by Flu

By UNITED PRESS

Arizona has become the second state hit by a flu epidemic, and mounting numbers of flu cases were reported today in all sections of the nation.

Arizona Health Commissioner C. G. Salsbury said late Tuesday that the flu rate in the state has "reached epidemic proportions."

Elementary and high schools at Clifton, Ariz., were ordered closed due to the outbreak, and at Flagstaff, school absenteeism reached about 15 per cent.

The Arizona cases, like those in most other parts of the nation, have not definitely been identified as Asian flu. Tests are underway to determine the flu strain responsible for the outbreak.

Earlier this week, Acting Director Joseph P. Kesler of the Utah state Health Department reported a flu epidemic in his state. School attendance dropped as much as 50 per cent in parts of Utah.

The U. S. Public Health Service in Washington urged manufacturers of Asian flu vaccine to distribute their supplies under priority recommendations from state and local officials.

The first major flu outbreak was reported in the populous Chicago area when about 1,000 suburban Oak Park - River Forest high school students and 80 students at Proviso High School were stricken with the ailment.

At Norman, Oklahoma, coach Bud Wilkinson and two of his University of Oklahoma football players were stricken. Wilkinson was treated at home and the players were admitted to the university infirmary.

STORY TELLING LEADS TO LIBRARY — A third grade class at the city's Washington elementary school is attentively — and happily — listenting to a story being read by Miss Vivian L. Drake, librarian at the Monessen Public Library. Miss Drake is touring city public and parochial schools to acquaint elementary students with the facilities and rules of the library. One of her favorite techniques is to read an interesting story, then inform the boys and girls that they will find many more just like it at the public library.

Scientists to Take Look at The Sun Today

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—Scientists prepared to take a long indirect look at the sun today through a telescope dangling from a space-soaring balloon.

The flight, "Operation Stratoscope," is sponsored by the U.S. Navy and operated by General Mills, Inc. for the purpose of getting better photographs of the sun than have ever been taken.

Officials expected the large plastic balloon, to be launched from suburban New Brighton, to carry a powerful telescope and camera to about 80,000 feet in the heavens.

The flight is expected to last at least six hours, during which time the camera will record actions on the sun's surface, including "spots and flares."

A General Mills spokesman said the information would aid considerably in determining the sun's effects on radio waves.

The flight, highest of its kind, will now be manned.

School Children Here Urged to Make Use of Public Library

Monessen's elementary school children are being lured to the city's public library these days with fairy tales and rhymes.

Miss Vivian L. Drake, the recently-appointed librarian, is employing the unsual technique as part of a plan to acquaint the youngsters with facilities at the library.

"I read stories to the boys and girls and then tell them there are many more wonderful tales available at the library," Miss Drake said. "The response has been much better than anticipated."

The city librarian plans to tour all public and parochial elementary schools in the next few weeks. She hopes to talk to each grade separately.

"I even had a session with kindergarten youngsters the other day," she revealed.

Story Technique

When meeting with youngsters in grades one through three, Miss Drake employs the story-telling technique. Usually she selects a fairy tale or rhyme which will make the boys and girls laugh.

"I spend between 15 and 20 minutes with these young students, devoting a good part of the time to story-telling," said Miss Drake.

With the boys and girls in grades four through six, Miss Drake has a little different approach. She relates some information about several books which are of interest to youngsters in that age group.

"I try to whet their appetities enough to get them to use the library," she explained.

"There's little doubt that Miss Drake is making quite an impression. Several parents have already called her to say their children want them to go to the library "and read us stories like the nice lady did."

Miss Drake tells the young citizens that they are welcome at the library and that they may secure a registration card if they are able to print or write their name. This card will enable youngsters to take out books.

"The important thing is that we want them to use the facilities of the library," said Miss Drake. "This will educate them early to the advantages of good reading."

Boys and girls from first grade up may visit the library and borrow books even if they are not accompanied by adults.

Miss Drake's tour through city schools is the first of its kind in Monessen. In the past, some groups of youngsters were invited to the library itself.

"This system seems to be working out much better," said Miss Drake. "It gives me an opportunity to explain the rules of the library to all elementary students.

Miss Drake assumed the position of librarian on May 1 of this year. She holds a bachelor of science degree in education from Miami University at Oxford, O., a bachelor of science in library science from Columbia University and a master of arts in library science from the University of Michigan.

Before accepting the Monessen position, Miss Drake served libraries at Southern Illinois University, the University of Cincinnati, Vassar College and Bard College and the Cincinnati Public Library.

Teenage Gang Crackdown Is Ordered by Police

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Police were under orders today to break up teenage gatherings on street corners following a riot Tuesday by several hundred white and Negro students.

Police Commissioner Thomas Gibbons issued the dispersal orders Tuesday night after loud demonstrations by juveniles, some armed with pistols and clubs. Police arrested 15 pupils of South Philadelphia High School, 14 of them Negroes, after dispersal orders were ignored.

Residents of the high school area said they saw some students armed with broomsticks, bottles and bricks.

Fist fighting broke out in scattered sections of the neighborhood. Two brothers were beaten severely in a fight between two gangs. Police broke up another gang battle.

Girl's Heart Stops; Recovers

DENVER (P)—A 10-year-old girl whose heart stopped pumping an hour during "deep freeze" surgery is making a "good recovery," National Jewish Hospital announced today.

The hospital, which specializes in heart and chest diseases, said a team of 15 surgeons and other medical specialists worked an hour to restore the child's heart activity during the operation on June 26.

The girl, Susan Kasper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kasper of Wilson, Kan., underwent the surgery to repair a hole in one of the inner walls of her heart.

2 Card of Thanks

GASPICH — We wish to thank the many thoughtful friends and neighbors who extended us kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of Mrs. Madeline Sacchini Gaspich. The ministrations of the Rev. Paul Trout, of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, floral tributes, expressions of sympathy, spiritual comfort, cars loaned for the funeral, and the aid of the pall bearers; as well as all those who assisted at the funeral will be remembered with gratitude.
John Gaspich and son and Sacchini Family.

Union Official Complaining of 'Moonlighting'

WASHINGTON (UP) — A union complained today that too many union members are undercutting fellow workers by "moonlighting."

A "moonlighter," explained the International Association of Machinists, is a person who does a day's work in a union shop and then works evenings for a non-union employer at cut rates.

The IAM said in its weekly publication The Machinist this practice has been spreading lately as "more and more union members find themselves over their heads in easy-payment plans."

It said Census Bureau figures show almost four million employes, most of them men, held down two or more jobs at one time last year, The Machinist said in an editorial.

"With a few exceptions, we are convinced that moonlighters have little love for their second job and the physical and mental exhaustion that goes with it," the editorial said.

"Nor do they enjoy a life in which they seldom, if ever, see their wives or their children."

It said the practice harms not only the workers but the union as well, making it "harder and harder to negotiate higher union rates."

Some Major Criticisms Leveled At Health Insurance Programs

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UP) — Have any of your living room conversations with friends recently taken a turn like this:

"As soon as he learned we had health insurance, he upped his fee."

Or:

"Our insurance never seems to cover the right thing. We had a lot of doctor bills last year, but none of us were in the hospital so we weren't covered."

Or:

"My dad is too old to get insurance, but he's the one who needs it."

Or:

"My policy provides maternity benefits of $150. Can you imagine Dr. Smith delivering a baby for that?"

Well, if you have, you are typical. For those are some of the major criticisms levelled at voluntary health insurance plans today.

Good Way To Go

Approximately 118 million Americans now have some form of medical insurance and it represents one of the most significant gains in Social Security over the past two decades. But insurance companies, the medical profession, unions and government all agree with your living room friends that we have a good way to go.

One of the most widespread complaints is that most health insurance policies are not comprehensive enough and particularly do not cover treatment at home or in a doctor's office. Studies have shown that 90 per cent of a doctor's work is performed outside hospitals.

For example, the United States is anticipating an epidemic of Asian flu this autumn and winter. It is going to lay many of us low for several weeks but in few cases, unless complications develop, will we enter hospitals. Yet the serious cases will require several doctor visits, medicines, nurses and treatment running into sizable expense. Few will be covered by insurance.

Hospital and doctor bills also have gone up rapidly. But health insurance payments have not kept pace.

Benefits For Aged

One common public complaint is that many doctors automatically jack up their fees when they learn a patient has health insurance. A survey taken among 8,000 doctors showed that one-fifth of them believed their colleagues did so.

Federal officials say it is not general but is fairly common in a few places—with New York, Detroit and Los Angeles among those most prominently mentioned.

One thing most insurance plans reject is preventive medicine.

"We could cover that, of course," said an official of one of the big plans. "But the cost to the public would be terrific. That's like a Christmas saving for medical costs, not insurance."

Medical insurance for the aged is a particular problem, for they are the ones with frequent chronic illnesses. Many companies are now writing policies with limited benefits for those 65 and over and abolishing the clause which permitted them to cancel a policy at any time.

Unions have been among the most vocal critics of present health insurance. United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, especially, feels they are not comprehensive enough. Reuther is spearheading a drive to establish in Detroit the "community health association" with diagnostic and preventive benefits.

Air Strike Stall

WASHINGTON (UP) — A National Mediation Board spokesman reported "no progress at all" Tuesday on efforts to settle the two-day National Airlines strike that has idled 3,500 employees Board Member Leverett Edwards met separately with both sides. He announced the discussions would resume today.
